

SEVERSON BILL IS PASSED BY SENATE

LEGISLATURE GETS GASOLINE TAX TOMORROW

Supplements Graduated License Fees For Autos Based On Weight

FIX TWO CENTS ON GALLON

County Treasurers Would Benefit By Additional $2,500,000

Madison — Counties of Wisconsin would directly benefit from the 2-cent gasoline tax proposed in a bill to be submitted to the joint highway committee of the legislature Wednesday night for approval. This measure is to come into the legislature to supplement the proposed graduated license fee based upon weight.

The bill provides a direct license fee of 2 cents a gallon on all motor fuel sold in the state in intrastate commerce after June 30, 1923. The first dealer who sells this motor fuel is liable for the payment of the tax unless already paid under the bill which provides for registration of all persons handling gasoline.

FUNDS TO COUNTIES

The funds raised by the tax estimated at $2,500,000 annually, would be distributed to the county treasurers of the several counties in the proportion that the mileage of rural highways, not a part of the state trunk highway system, in each county bears to the total mileage of rural highways not a part of the state trunk highway system in all the counties.

"For the purpose of this section," the bill adds, "the term 'rural highways' shall include public highway by law for public travel lying in portions of Wisconsin together with sections of such highways into villages to a point where, on both sides of the street or highway the houses commence to average less than 200 feet apart."

FOR ROAD EXPENSES

"The amount received by each county in accordance with the bill shall be used for the construction of maintenance of roads and bridges in the said county in such amounts and manners as shall be provided for by resolutions of the county board."

Deductions from the amount of tax are made "whenever any person, firm or corporation purchasing motor fuel shall certify in writing that such use is in a stationary engine, farm tractor, motor boat, or in manufacturing the sciences of the arts, or in any manner otherwise than in propelling a motor vehicle on the public highways."

The dealer deducts the amount of the tax from the sale price and then is himself reimbursed by the secretary of state.

MICHIGAN LAWMAKERS TO VISIT ANN ARBOR

Lansing, Mich.—Members of the Michigan legislature are to visit Ann Arbor in a body as the guests of the University of Michigan alumni to look over the university's needs. This was decided Monday night after a stormy session of the senate at which some members strenuously opposed acceptance of the invitation, on the ground that interested individuals should not be permitted to foot the bill. There was virtually no opposition in the house.

Chases Girl 35,000 Miles To Marry Her

By Associated Press

New York—A nine year courtship, during which the man travelled more than 35,000 miles, will culminate here Wednesday when James Jolley, London civil engineer, and actor will marry Miss Jeanette Sherwin, star in a Broadway play. Jolley was a passenger on the Cedric arriving Tuesday from England.

Miss Sherwin, daughter of Mme. Amy Sherwin, Australian prima donna, first met Jolley in 1914 in England. When she left for South Africa Jolley gave up his job and followed her there. They met at Johannesburg and he got an engagement in her company. He proposed but without success. Later they went to India and again he proposed.

This time the answer was "yes" and the engagement ring was made at Bazar at Delhi. While the company was touring in Japan the war broke out and Jolley enlisted. He became a lieutenant. Then came a false report that he had been killed in action. They met again in London but Miss Sherwin refused to marry him at once saying she wanted to distinguish herself on the stage.

Just recently she decided that she had reached the point in her career where she could marry. When Jolley who meanwhile had been made stage manager of a London production received the news he cabled from Suz that he would sail on the first boat.

ORDERS 3,000 BLUE COATS TO PURGE CHICAGO

Chief Of Police Fitzmorris Begins Drastic Drive To Clean Up Vice

By Associated Press

Chicago—Stamping out commercialized vice under what was said to have been the most drastic police order ever drawn in Chicago may claim the entire attention of 3,000 of the city's available 4,575 patrolmen. Charles C. Fitzmorris, chief of police Monday night directed police captains to place uniformed patrolmen at the front and back doors of every disorderly house in Chicago. Reform leaders have asserted that more than 500 such places are operating here.

Chief Fitzmorris refused to comment on the order that he said that "speaks for itself." It informed the police captains that "no excuses will be accepted for failure to comply with this order" and that if stationing the men reduced the effectiveness at precinct station to an unworkable minimum patrolmen would be transferred from other precincts not so hard hit.

The chief's order came within four hours after Chief Justice McKinley of the criminal courts had indicated the March grand jury would be required to renew the investigation into alleged vice conditions. The January and February grand juries failed to return indictments.

Torok Tells All Saints Men's Society Of Bolshevism's Dangers

"That bolshevism is the great danger of America was the thought expressed Monday evening by the Rev. John Torok who spoke before the Men's Society of All Saints' church following a 6:30 dinner.

The Rev. Father Torok told of the European idea of bolshevism as compared with the American idea, stating the Americans cannot possibly know of the terrible feeling created in Europe by the people who have come into contact with the results of its teachings. The speaker, who is himself a Hungarian, and has only been in the United States about two years, has been in a position to see the havoc resulting in Europe by bolshevism, and teaches and feels one of the greatest problems for America today is to teach its immigrants Americanism when they reach its shores.

The Rev. Mr. Torok has been interested in teaching the foreigners from his own country who have come to the United States and although educated in Europe he desires to help preserve American institutions from the effects of such things as radicalism and bolshevism.

Judge A. M. Spencer, who was also a speaker, told many interesting personal experiences. He spoke on the parole system and told mostly of the things with which he has come in contact.

Sixty persons were present at the banquet.

THREE STATES ASKED TO JOIN IN WATER FIGHT

Blaine Invites Indiana, Michigan And Minnesota For Joint Action

Madison — United action of Wisconsin, Minnesota, Michigan and Indiana against the state of Illinois and the Chicago sanitary district was proposed Tuesday by Governor J. J. Blaine and Attorney General Herman L. Ekern of Wisconsin, to prevent further illegal diversion of Lake Michigan water through the Chicago drainage canal.

In a message to Governor J. A. O. Freus, Minnesota, A. J. Groesbeck, Michigan and Warren T. McGary, Indiana, the Wisconsin governor and attorney general invite the states they represent to join in the injunctive proceedings already started by Wisconsin before the United States Supreme court to restrain Illinois from using lake water.

They propose a conference of attorneys to be held at Chicago, March 19 for the purpose of considering joint prosecution of the action now pending.

This action has resulted from the Great Lakes conference held last week at Manitowish. It followed a conference here Saturday night between Attorney General Ekern and Andrew Dougherty, attorney general, Michigan, to consider the situation caused by the diversion of lake water through the Chicago canal.

Chicago is charged with lowering the level of Lake Michigan more than six inches by its diversion of water through the drainage canal. This reduction in depth is said to cause millions of dollars loss to shipping each year and to affect the water supplies of some lake cities. Because of the use of this lake water to develop electric power for Chicago, the diversion has been called a gigantic water power "steal" by J. G. D. Mack, state chief engineer for Wisconsin.

FORD-LORGE BAIL FIXED AT $1,000

Trial For Flour Burglary Deferred Until Lonsdorf Returns To City

Madison — Samuel Ford, and his stepfather, N. J. Lorge, Fremont-st. men, arrested for theft of several sacks of flour from the Lichten Grain company Saturday evening caused something of a sensation in Appleton, cannot take place for several days on account of the absence of John A. Lonsdorf, district attorney. Mr. Lonsdorf is in Madison attending the state convention of district attorneys.

Ford and his father were arraigned in municipal court Monday afternoon after warrants charging burglary had been served upon them. Bonds were fixed by Judge A. M. Spencer at $1,000 each, which up to Tuesday noon neither had as yet furnished. They are being held in the county jail. Lorge is believed to be the man that Frank Lichten encountered walking out of the elevator Saturday night with a sack of flour on his shoulder. When Ford was asked to make an arrest, the man broke away, while Ford is said to have merely feigned taking pursuit.

FLAYS MEN WHO SIGNED ANTI-"BOB" DOCUMENT

Madison — A subamendment to his resolution asking that the round robin signed by members of the faculty of the University of Wisconsin criticizing Senator R. M. La Follette's war attitude be publicly destroyed by a bonfire, was offered in the senate of the Wisconsin legislature Tuesday by Senator Henry A. Huber, Stoughton.

The sub declares the action of the men who signed the document as unworthy of men employed in Wisconsin's "greatest educational institution." The document is not of historic value and should not have been circulated in the university or filed in the historical library, the amendment declared.

BOY OBEYS IN SLEEP BUT WILL NOT AWAKEN

Green Bay—Harold Zerbel, 4, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Zerbel, Green Bay, has been the victim of sleeping sickness at his home here as a result of a form of "flu." The boy has been in a comatose condition for a week. His case is peculiar due to the fact that he can hear and obey any order made by the attending physician, Dr. J. P. Lefestey, as regards to moving about.

According to Dr. Lefestey, the boy will turn over at command, but will not awaken. He is being fed liquid food.

Enroute to Florida with President Harding—Two years ago Warren G. Harding went to Florida to prepare himself for the presidency; now he goes there to escape for a time at least the arduous tasks of executive office.

Behind him he leaves an atmosphere of fatigue, an exhausted officialdom, for as usual everything was left to the last moment by congress, and the last ten days have been filled with hours of panicky haste. Bills that needed weeks of careful consideration were given superficial attention by congress in a mad rush to finish by the statutory hour. Farm credit legislation, which might well have occupied a whole session itself, was passed in a few days. And the net result of it all is to place upon the executive and his cabinet officers the responsibility of wisely executing the laws that are made and seeing to it that unwise provisions are kept inoperative till congress can come back to correct defects.

That process is exactly what Mr. Harding complains about. Every day in every way, every week and every month, congress adds to the burdens of the executive, he has told callers in recent weeks. So it is no wonder that he discourages all talk of a special session before December. It would take a political earthquake or sudden emergency for him to bring congress back.

Mr. Harding is physically and mentally tired. He is not what one would call a robust individual. Ever since his youth, physicians have advised him to lead an outdoor life as much as possible. While in Ohio politics and later in the United States senate, he was able to follow that advice scrupulously. But since he has been president, it has been different. His favorite recreation has been golf but he had not been president very long

PHIL A. GRAU WILL SPEAK AT CIVIC DINNER

Dynamic Milwaukee Speaker Consents To Appear At Banquet Monday

Announcement is made by the dinner committee of the chamber of commerce that Phil A. Grau, executive director of Milwaukee Association of Commerce, has been secured as speaker for the civic dinner to be held at Elk Hall Monday evening. Many attempts had previously been made to obtain Mr. Grau as a speaker, and the committee considers itself fortunate in having finally been successful.

The news that Mr. Grau will be at the civic dinner spread rapidly among the business men Tuesday who had been asking frequently whether Mr. Grau could be obtained. Mr. Grau has a national reputation as a speaker and lived up to it when he spoke here three years ago at the dinner of the chamber of commerce. He created such an excellent impression while he was here, that members have asked often to have the privilege of hearing him again.

HAS NEW ADDRESS

Mr. Grau has a new address filled with the spirit of cooperation. "What is the Matter with Wisconsin?" is the subject. Those who have heard him on this subject report that the address is both inspirational and entertaining.

It is now definitely known that the election of officers and directors for the chamber of commerce will not be held in connection with the civic dinner, but will be postponed until April so that all new members secured during the coming membership campaign may be considered for nomination and have the privilege of voting.

It is necessary to change the date of the annual meeting which has already been held before the close of the fiscal year. Only such action as is necessary to defer the business of the chamber will be taken up at the civic dinner.

SHORT MEETING

The committee in charge is also bound not to make the meeting unduly long. There probably will be no other address besides that of Mr. Grau and a talk by J. P. Frank, colonel of the forces in the membership campaign.

Men and women of the community have been invited to attend the dinner, tickets for which are $1. The civic dinner will be served by Appleton Woman's club. Special music will be provided. Members who have been appointed on the dinner committee are A. G. Koch, Dr. H. P. Penabody, Dr. L. H. Moore, H. L. Davis, Alger W. J. Fitzmaurice, Dr. E. H. Brooks, Theodore H. Bell.

At 6 o'clock this evening there will be a meeting of all the majors and captains in the chamber of commerce room, at which to outline plans for the membership campaign. Each of the four majors has completed his list of captains. Further organization will be arranged at the meeting Tuesday evening.

DYING MAN WEDS GIRL FOR HOUR

Chicago—For an hour Monday Eleanor McCarthy, 21, was a bride. At the end of the hour death had made her the widow of Herman As Swanson.

The man, 62 years old and dying of chronic nephritis, had sent a last hour summons to Miss McCarthy early Monday morning. The girl responded. At 9:30 she had taken out the marriage license. At 10 o'clock the ceremony was performed at Swanson's home by Justice of the Peace E. M. Moneky. Twenty minutes later the husband fainted away. At 11 o'clock he died.

Miss McCarthy had been a friend of Mr. Swanson for three years. The latter, a widower and formerly head of a company manufacturing a rheumatism cure, was formerly considered rich, but his wealth had dwindled away in poor investments.

When Mr. Swanson was taken ill last Saturday his first thought was of the marriage. He declared he wanted what little property he had to go to Miss McCarthy in case of his death.

ELECT NEW CHIEF OF POLICE AS OLD IS DYING

Benidji, Minn.—Thomas Bailey, for the last three years chief of police of Benidji died Monday night five minutes before his term expired. Death was due to pneumonia. The city council was in session at the time of Mr. Bailey's death and was holding on the election of a new chief when news of the death came. Louis Larson was appointed to succeed Mr. Bailey.

Mr. Bailey was the first elected sheriff of Beltrami-co, two years ago, holding the office for two terms.

Man In Jail On Rum Charge Goes On Hunger Strike

By Associated Press

Marinette — John Birta, farmer, charged by Sheriff Oscar Dahl with moonshining, lies in a weakened condition in the county jail here as a result of a hunger strike which has lasted for eight days. All efforts to feed the prisoner have been unavailing, according to the sheriff since he was placed in jail Feb. 25.

The prisoner's wife declared that Birta is laboring under the impression that he will be released if he maintains his refusal to eat "as he has read of several instances where it was successful."

He will appear before Judge Davis in circuit court Tuesday.

C. D. NORTON, SECRETARY TO TAFT, IS DEAD

Banker And Publicist Born In City Of Oshkosh

By Associated Press

New York—Charles Dyer Norton, banker and formerly secretary to President Taft, died at his home here Tuesday.

Mr. Norton who was in his fifty-third year died from complications which followed an attack of influenza. He was a native of Oshkosh, Wis. He was president of the First Securities company, a subsidiary of the First National bank; a vice president and director of the First National bank and a member of many other financial institutions.

Mr. Norton was a trustee of the American Academy in Rome, the Metropolitan Museum of Art and the American Federation of Arts, and treasurer of the Russell Sage foundation and Russell Sage Foundation Homes company.

He was the son of the Rev. Franklin B. and Harriet (Dyer) Norton. His first active work was in 1893 when he joined the staff of Scribner's magazine in this city.

Later he took up insurance work in Chicago and in 1909 and 1910 was assistant secretary of the treasury, resigning that post to become secretary to President Taft. He was a member of many clubs.

He survived by his wife, a daughter and two sons.

BAG EIGHT MEN IN JEWEL RING

Loot Of $50,000 Is Expected To Be Recovered Following Arrests

By Associated Press

Chicago—George McKeen, 28, formerly of Milwaukee, and Jerome, his brother and five other men were arrested here early Tuesday by police in connection with theft of about $50,000 in jewels from a downtown jewelry store.

Louis Schief, arrested Monday afternoon immediately after the robbery, is also in jail. He was captured by shoppers who, attracted by the cries of Mrs. Beatrice Massover, owner of the shop pursued him. A companion escaped.

Jerome McKeen was arrested first by police. Later two men who gave their names as Sam Sherman and Jack Davis were arrested at the former's apartment. George McKeen was arrested there early Tuesday and police said they found 20 rings valued at $2,000 in his possession.

From revelations made by those under arrest police said that they expected to recover the remainder of the precious stores.

Pair Dances 91-2 Hours For World's Record

By Associated Press

Sunderland, England — What is claimed to be a new world's nonstop fox trotting record was established early Tuesday by Edgar Van Olfen and Miss Ollie Finnerty, who danced 91 1/2 hours without pause. Neither took food during the long period on the floor and both finished comparatively fresh.

Their performance beats by an hour the record set up in Glasgow Saturday by two Scotch dancers, this in turn having outtrunk two other records made recently of 7 1/2 and 7 3/4 hours.

FINAL PASSAGE ALSO FORECAST FOR ASSEMBLY

Secrecy Clause Is Wiped Out Despite Fight Against Action

WINS BY 17 TO 8 VOTE

Measure Cannot Be Enforced, Declare Opponents In Vain Arguments

Madison—The Wisconsin senate voted 17 to 8 Tuesday to pass the Severson bill, wiping out the secrecy clause of the state income tax law, carrying out the mandate which administration senators claimed had been given by the people at the last election.

With this measure now finally disposed of in the upper house it goes to the assembly for concurrence. Final passage can be definitely predicted by a large vote in the house. When that occurs the principal campaign issue of the last election will have been carried successfully through the legislature.

"ONLY SUBTERFUGE"

Although recognizing that they were defeated, opponents of the Severson bill, argued against its passage. They contended that the measure was a mere subterfuge (that served as a popular campaign issue, but one that could result in no benefit to the people.

The arguments advanced in favor of this bill are quite unadmitted. Senator B. Skogmo, leader of the opposition declared, "Repeal of secrecy clause will not contribute one dollar more to the treasury from income taxes than at present."

"CANNOT BE ENFORCED"

Senator Werden, Ashland, opposed the bill on the ground that its application would be ineffective and would be futile in accomplishing the intent and object of the legislation. Senator H. J. Severson, supporting his bill pointed out that Senator Skogmo four years ago was an ardent advocate of its passage at that time, opposing all attempts at amendment and backing the proposal on the floor. He referred to industries in the state which "move out every two years in the newspapers but never actually get started," as in many cases being the industries which oppose the repeal of the secrecy clause and which had covered up taxes.

THE FOLLGOWS:

For passage—Barber, Benfey, Bilgrien, Caselman, Caperson, Garey, Heck, Hirsch, Huber, Johnson, Kemp, Polakowski, Quick, Schumann, Severson, Staudenmayer and Teasdale.

Against passage—Clark, Czerwinski, Kuckuk, Lange, Morris, Roethe, Skogmo and Werden.

PROVIDE HIGHWAY FUND

Madison—The senate voted unanimously Tuesday to appropriate $1,500,000 to the highway commission to meet federal aid fund provided for construction of Wisconsin roads.

Without discussion the senate passed the Cashman bill providing for the elimination of text books defining characters of the American Revolution and War of 1812 from the public schools of the state. It now goes to the assembly where passage is expected.

FAVOR MUNICIPAL BUSINESS

The assembly Tuesday favored the participation of cities in private business when it engrossed two bills both of which would empower municipalities to handle food products in competition with existing enterprises.

It also engrossed the Oliver bill authorizing all cities of the state to establish and operate depots and plants for the preparation and distribution of milk and other dairy products. This measure is broad in its scope and opens a field of enterprise for municipalities.

CADETS GET CAPITOL

But two dissenting votes were cast in the lower house on a motion granting the use of the state capital to cadet corps of the University of Wisconsin for its annual military ball to be held April 20. They were Assemblymen A. B. Blomberg, Price-co and W. A. Freeboff, Waukesha. Mr. Blomberg declared the action of the assembly in granting the use of the Capitol to the cadets would be inconsistent with their action favoring the abolition of militarism.

A bill amending the constitution relating to the governor's salary was rushed through the lower house of the legislature Tuesday so as the people may vote on it at the spring elections. It would provide that the salary of the governor would be not less than $5,000 per year and might be increased by action of the legislature.

The Free bill granting home rule to counties was recommended for indefinite postponement by the assembly's committee on state affairs.

Reserving its action of last week the assembly voted to indefinitely postpone the Oliver bill providing for complete abolition of the state civil service, the vote for indefinite postponement was 69 to 23.

SCHOOL PLANS TO BE GIVEN COUNCIL WHEN THEY ARRIVE

Board of Education Discusses Appointment Of Junior H. S. Executives

Informal discussion of the new junior high schools took up the greater part of the meeting of the board of education at Appleton high school Monday afternoon. Three blueprints of the east end building and a small sketch of the west end building prepared by the architects, Perkins, Fellows & Hamilton, were exhibited. They were gone over carefully and it was decided to request the architects to prepare blueprints of the latter building before any further steps are taken. As soon as the blueprints arrive the board of education will be in a position to take the entire matter up with the common council and will be able to give that body a fairly accurate estimate of the cost of the two buildings. The architects estimate that section A, or the first unit of the east end building, will cost approximately $120,000, while section B, the second building, will cost $125,000. Sections A and B of the former buildings are estimated at $210,000, while with the auditorium and gymnasium the estimate is approximately $208,134.

COUNCIL READY

It was brought out at the meeting that the common council was ready at any time to issue the bonds for which provision had been made and was only awaiting the order of the board of education to set the machinery in motion. The matter of additional funds to complete the buildings will be considered at the time the board presents the building situation to the council.

The west end building will be erected at the triangle of College-ave and State road, which it will face, and will be 65 feet back from the latter thoroughfare. The building differs somewhat in detail from the others, but in a general way is quite similar. After the board adopts the plans the architects require about six weeks to get out the drawings and specifications and about a month's time is required for the contractors to submit their bids.

The matter of the administration of the new junior high schools was briefly discussed. The opinion was expressed it was none too soon for someone to be named as principal or supervisor and that provision should be made also for teachers in order that adequate preparations be made in advance for organization. As it is now no principal in the city feels he can do anything in the matter and there are seventh and eighth grade teachers that ought to be in the new high schools. It was said.

INCREASE INSURANCE

After a lengthy discussion during which the advantages of co-insurance under the 90 per cent plan and straight insurance were brought out, the board decided to increase the amount of insurance on the high school $30,000 under the co-insurance plan.

The special committee appointed to examine the school site near Appleton Junction as a possible site for one of the schools reported it had done so, but found it too far west and too far south to answer requirements. Dr. Earl Baker has made a proposition to the various school boards of the city to take charge of music in the public schools the coming year and in all probability a joint meeting of the boards and principals will be called within the next few days to consider it and the question also of salaries of teachers.

The trustee officer's report for February showed 23 cases of non-attendance at school, 21 of which were in the primary grades, 2 in truancy and 6 in other causes. Ten pupils were returned to school, and 17 calls were made to the schools for various reasons. Bills amounting to $1,283.63 were allowed.

PENNYLESS MIKER IS POPULAR HERE

Leonard Day Gives Series Of Talks At Meetings On Monday

Leonard Day, San Francisco author, whose real name is not disclosed, sprang into sudden popularity when he stepped off in Appleton on his 10-585 mile walking tour around the edge of the United States. Offers for entertainment came thick and fast for the benefit of the hatless, coatless and penniless stranger who is making this unique journey to prove to the publishers of his novel that the American people are hospitable.

After being the guest of the Lions club Monday noon, he gave an address before the St. Elizabeth club in the afternoon, besides being conducted through local mills. Twice he appeared on the stage of a theater Monday evening and again at the meeting of the American Legion later at Elk club.

When he left Oshkosh Saturday, he was accompanied by Charles Hoffman, man of the Oshkosh fire department, and Walter Meyer, city sealer.

Hoffman hiked as far as West Gens and returned, but Meyer accompanied Day to Appleton. Meyer said the going was exceedingly bad as the road was covered with several inches of slush and water.

Mr. Day will proceed by way of Neenah and Waupaca to St. Paul, Chief McGillan of the fire department intends, however, to detain the traveler for several days until the roads become more favorable.

MEETING TONIGHT OPENS CAMPAIGN

Three Conservation Leaders Will Speak At Vocational School

Three noted conservation leaders of Wisconsin, Elmer S. Hall, R. O. Webster and E. D. Olson, will be the speakers at the Northmen mass meeting in the vocational school at 8 o'clock Tuesday evening. The annual membership campaign of the Outagamie Fish and Game Protective association will start immediately after this meeting.

Mr. Hall will tell what the conservation commission is doing and will probably give a definite answer to the request of the local association that a game warden be stationed in this county. Mr. Webster's talk is expected to deal largely with fishing and fishing legislation, inasmuch as he is in charge of the fish hatcheries of the state. An illustrated lecture on Wisconsin game will be given by Mr. Olson.

A dinner for the three speakers will be given by directors of the county association at 6:15 this evening.

ON THE SCREEN

MARY THURMAN PLAYS LEAD TO BARTHELMESS

Mary Thurman, who plays leading woman in Richard Barthelmess' latest First National starring vehicle which is a screen adaptation of George Washington Ogden's celebrated story "The Bond Boy," coming to the Elite Theatre on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, is as versatile as she is pretty and sweet.

Miss Thurman who has not yet reached her twentieth birthday can claim more accomplishments than being a very good film actress. She is an authoress as well. Her first story "The Sign of Martha Quaid" was filmed recently, and she played the stellar role.

"I knew just how the character should act because I created it myself," she explained.

Incidentally, Miss Thurman will also become a headliner in vaudeville as she is now rehearsing a one act comedy which will be staged this autumn.

Bobbied hair, although not of the flapper type, Mary Thurman truly interprets the earnest views of life which the intelligent woman of today holds. In spite of her success she is modest and retiring.

"I'm not at all sure that I've done anything really worth while yet," she insists, "but I intend to keep trying. Most of the fun is in trying, anyway," she admitted with a smile.

NEED STENOGRAPHERS IN SOUTHERN ISLANDS

Although examinations are held monthly by the civil service commission for positions of stenographers and typist a special effort is being made at this time to secure eligibles to fill two vacancies in that position at $4.64 a day in the public works department, naval station, Guantanamo Bay Cuba, and one vacancy in the same position at $4.50 a day under the navy department in the Island of Guam. For all these positions, transportation is paid by the government to the post of duty and return, provided, the appointee serves at least two years. Women will not be appointed to these positions. Persons who desire to compete for these positions should enter one of the regular monthly stenographer and typist examinations for departmental service. Application blanks may be secured at the postoffice from Herman J. French, local secretary of the civil service board.

M. A. Schuh, who has been confined to his home by illness for a week, expects to return to his duties at Appleton State bank within the next few days.

FLASHBOARDS ON NEENAH DAM HOLD UP RIVER PEACE

Another Meeting Of Riparians And Waterpower Owners Next Saturday

T. W. Orbison was elected a member of the committee which will meet in Oshkosh next Saturday morning in an effort to arrive at some conclusion in the controversy between waterpower users on the Fox river and riparian owners who charge that high water each spring causes them great losses. Mr. Orbison is one of the three men who will represent the waterpower interests at the meeting. The other two are F. J. Sensesbrenner of Neenah and Moses Hooper of Oshkosh. The riparian owners will be represented by Allan H. Tripp, Gilles Landing, president of the Association for Relief From High Water; George E. Williams, Oshkosh, attorney for the riparian owners, and George Randall, city engineer for Oshkosh. It is probable that Mayor R. D. Haentze of Fond du Lac and representatives of the United States engineers office at Milwaukee will attend the meeting. A conference was held in Oshkosh Monday to clear up the situation but because of the large attendance and the divergence of views it was impossible to arrive at a decision and another meeting was called.

Whether the flashboards on the Neenah dam are a source of danger and cause of damage to riparian land owners in times of high water and whether these should be removed, were the principal questions under consideration at Monday's conference. Mill-owners using the water power from the Neenah and Menasha dams were not inclined to give up the flashboards, which are timbers on top of the Neenah dam for the purpose of raising the level of the river above the original level of the dam. Members of the Association for Relief From High Water were equally firm against the boards.

Water power users presented a proposal, containing four points, the first of which proved the bone of contention.

MOTHER! MOVE CHILD'S BOWELS

"California Fig Syrup" is Child's Best Laxative

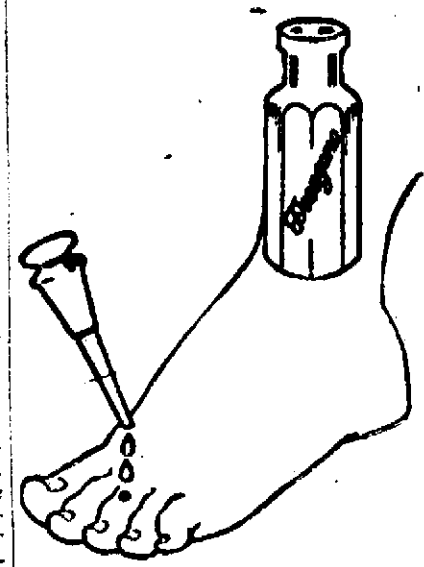

Even a sick child loves the "fruity" taste of "California Fig Syrup." If the little stomach is upset, tongue coated, or if your child is cross, feverish, full of cold, or has colic, a teaspoonful will never fail to open the bowels. In a few hours you can see for yourself how thoroughly it works all the constipation poison, sour bile and waste from the tender, little bowels and gives you a well, playful child again.

Millions of mothers keep "California Fig Syrup" handy. They know a teaspoonful today saves a sick child tomorrow. Ask your druggist for genuine "California Fig Syrup" which has directions for babies and children of all ages printed on bottle. Mother! or must say "California" or you may get an imitation fig syrup. adv.

GHEEN TO SPEAK AT AD CLUB MEETING

What can be done in the way of community advertising will be presented by James F. Gheen, education director of the American City Bureau, who is promoting the Greater Appleton movement here, at the dinner Thursday noon of Appleton Advertising club.

The club has requested Secretary Hugh G. Corbett of the chamber of commerce to send invitations to the officers of the various commercial organizations of the Fox River valley to attend this meeting.

Mr. Gheen gave an address Monday noon at the luncheon and meeting of the Rotary club at New London. His address was favorably received, judging from the letters received at the club.

That was that the Neenah dam shall be licensed by the federal power commission to be continued as it now exists. That means its operation with eleven inch flashboards constructed last fall and ordered removed by the United States government on Feb. 2. The boards have not been removed.

It was brought out that if the orders could be modified to permit mill owners to draw water to a lower point at this time of year and provide a lower level against the spring freshets, it would be possible to control the water in the flood periods.

In consideration of the flashboard concession the mill owners agreed to bring about a lowering of the level of Lake Winnebago to increase the capacity of the river below Neenah and Menasha so as to hold the level of the lake to fifteen inches above the crest of the Menasha dam.

FARMERS ARE NOT AWAKE TO EFFECT OF DAHL TAX BILL

Kinsman Tells Lions Club Why Income Tax Principle Is Fair

The farmers have not awakened to what the Dahl tax bill in the Wisconsin legislature means to them. Dr. D. O. Kinsman, one of the authors of the original income tax law of Wisconsin, declared in an address on the Dahl measure before the Lions club at their weekly meeting in Conway hotel Monday noon. Dr. Kinsman urged a square deal in taxation and condemned a tax which placed an undue burden upon one class for the benefit of another. He reviewed the present income tax law to show the circumstances that prompted and declared that the income tax a fair tax because it assesses for the cost of the government according to ability to pay. "The best way to face a problem in which we are interested is to endeavor to place ourselves in the position of the disinterested observers so we can arrive at our conclusions without bias," Dr. Kinsman said. "Whether we like the Dahl bill or the Severn bill, we must admit that we must pay taxes and more taxes and that taxpayer's ability will be based on income."

FAIREST TAX
Dr. Kinsman outlined a few principles which should be accepted in discussing taxation. He said if it is necessary to tax, the tax burden should be distributed according to ability to pay and the best way is a tax on incomes. He said that the tax is not on gross income, but on net income, which is the gross income after deducting the expense of creating the income. Modern income tax laws also permit deductions for living expenses and these deductions are larger when a larger family causes a larger expense. Dr. Kinsman appealed for justice in fixing taxation. He declared that most people are willing to pay their just dues to their state but resent paying more. He said that a tax based on justice is much easier to enforce than one that is based on injustice.

DEFEATED TAX LAW
Repeal of the secrecy clause of the income tax law was condemned by Dr. Kinsman because, he said, experience in many states which attempted income tax laws, showed that the income tax failed largely because there was no secrecy in the tax returns and that business secrets were made public. He said the present law permits the tax commission to open income tax returns to any person it sees fit. Repeal of the personal property off set clause will react to the disadvantage of the farmer and every taxpayer who has tangible personal property, Dr. Kinsman said. He illustrated this by showing that if a farmer has personal property that can be assessed and a city dweller has personal property that cannot be assessed, which cannot be found, the farmer will pay a tax on the property he owns while the city man will escape the payment. Under the present law the farmer can use his personal property receipt to pay his income tax and thereby escape payment of a larger sum than the equally wealthy city man.

DOUBLE TAXATION
The provision in the Dahl and Severn bills which permits double taxation of dividends from corporations also was condemned. The present income tax law provides that the tax on dividends from the individual total tax dividends shall be paid at their source but permits a deduction of these dividends from the individual total. The Dahl bill also provides that the dividends shall be taxed before they are distributed but repeals the clause which permits a deduction and therefore they are taxed twice. Dr. Kinsman said a double taxation wouldn't be bad if everyone paid it but if only some of the people are doubly taxed it is unjust. He said it indicated an attack on corporation income. He warned against a too high rate of taxation, declaring that taxes usually are paid out of the investment income and therefore constitute a danger to the public.

MONEY HURT HER
Monday evening about 5 o'clock on College-ave. I overheard the remarks of three working men who were walking just ahead of me. One in particular was expressing his disapproval of the Russian boots worn by two girls approaching them. Just as the girls were about to pass, one of the girls stooped and tried to take something from her boot which seemed to be irritating her. One of the men remarked that the object she threw out looked like a dollar bill. He went back and picked up the crumpled green paper. Sure enough, when he smothered it out, he had a dollar bill! His companions looked a bit envious and said, "Well, that was easy money." Somebody was minus a dollar and the critic was well paid. E. G.

FOOT MALADY IS TRIAL OF AUTOIST

Motor Improvements Make Driving Too Steady For Owner's Health

Improvements have made driving so easy for the motorist that a new malady has been reported. It's called "Automobile foot," and it's directly attributed to holding the foot too long on the accelerator. In former years a driver had no chance to do this. A puncture or blow-out would get his foot off the throttle in a hurry. And he would have a good chance to get out and stretch himself. But now with less tire trouble and fewer engine mishaps, the autoist has been able to continue in his seat.

freight train at College-ave crossing at 1 o'clock Saturday afternoon. He came down Cherry-st and turned east on the railway right-of-way a short distance ahead of a freight train headed in the same direction. "The distance between the end of the ties and a deep ditch filled with water where he was riding was less than two feet and when within 50 feet of him the engineer gave him several sharp blasts of the whistle. Looking around the young man saw the cylinder head of the locomotive within a few feet of his head and instantly leaped into the water. F. M.

with his foot in one position so long that it would become cramped. Result—Automobile foot. Of course, there may be a mishap now and then, but their correction has been reduced to so little time and effort, that the foot has hardly had a chance to rest before it finds itself back in its former position at the pedal. And things are getting worse for the poor right foot. Inventors are busy trying to reduce tire trouble, its most saving feature, to a minimum. In fact, one inventor has come out with a plan by which punctures may occur without forcing the driver to leave his seat to repair them. A Chicago man is responsible for "Automobile foot." It's a valveless inner tube, in which is a gummy mixture that flows to any opening made by a puncture and closes it up almost immediately. Somewhat like "Never-leak" in bicycle tires. AIR BY INJECTION That prevents further escape of air. But if the air does happen to escape altogether, the inventor has designed a sort of hypodermic needle which he sticks through casing and tube and through which the air is forced into the tube. When the needle is withdrawn, the gummy substance plugs up the hole. Clever, Simple. But, oh, that "Automobile foot!" With the coming of fair weather, matters look pretty bad for your right foot—if you don't get out and stretch every once in a while. Tourists, especially, should beware of long country rides without resting that foot. When quick results are imperative Post-Crescent Want Ads never fail.

THE LEGISLATURE

About eighty of the one hundred assemblymen in the Wisconsin legislature were elected on the LaFollette ticket. They had the LaFollette stamp of approval. They were elected by great majorities. The people voted for them merely because they had a badge in their coat lapel entitled "Loyal Supporter of Hon. Robert M. LaFollette." After the election there were enthusiastic meetings of the successful candidates. The "old order" was going to change. The "capitalists" were going to be voted out. Of course, they didn't stop to think that LaFollette has been in virtual control of this state for the last twenty-two years nor did they reflect upon their definition of a "capitalist" which is merely a man who has contrary political opinions to their own. It was enough that the "old order" had been changed so many times in the last twenty-two years that it was dizzy but this time there was going to be another change—a big change, a beautiful change. Everything that existed must be wrong. Therefore, it must be wiped out. What would the result be? Who cared a gingersnap?

The assembly met. It immediately passed a bill abolishing the National Guard. What would the consequences be? Who cared a rap? It was enough that the National Guard has existed since the birth of the nation, that it had covered itself and the country with glory, that it took flat-chested and stoop-shouldered men and made them into regular fellows, teaching them cleanliness and manliness. That was enough to condemn it with the Wisconsin assembly. The present session of the Wisconsin legislature will never get the Nobel prize for intelligence.

As soon as the assembly passed the act abolishing the National Guard, Governor Blaine apparently became a little apprehensive that the steam roller was going too fast. The governor did not speak right out. That would have been violative of the rule which gives the prerogative of first speaking to the great leader. The governor kept quiet long enough for a letter from him to reach Senator LaFollette at Washington and when the senator saw what the Wisconsin assembly had done, he too became apprehensive. The ghost of North Dakota floated before him. He remembered what had happened to Townley in leading the Non-Partisan hosts to whip the "capitalists" of North Dakota, most of whom, by the way, were farmers. He, therefore, publicly announced that he favored the continuance of the National Guard. Immediately thereafter Governor Blaine, faithful lieutenant, made public announcement to the same effect. Thereupon the LaFollette leaders in the senate made a right-about-face and put the bill abolishing the National Guard on the shelf, but not so the assembly. It makes no apologies and no recessions. Its vote to abolish the guard stands, and with it a lot of other votes of the same character.

The truth about the matter is that the legislature has run away with its leaders. The assembly has taken the bit in its mouth and cannot be checked on anything. It is trying to see how radical it can be and how many obnoxious and crazy laws it can pass. Even the partisans of LaFollette and Blaine have become nauseated by what is going on at Madison. Here is what their Milwaukee supporter, the Wisconsin News, has to say editorially of the legislature:

The reputation and welfare of Wisconsin seem to cut little ice with the leaders of the Wisconsin assembly. Elected as progressives with a mandate to accomplish constructive and remedial legislation, they have set out to abuse their mandate and run amuck in the fields of political and economic hysteria. The second act of their frenzied program is more irresponsible and threatening than the first.

Coming from an administration organ, this indictment of the legislature has much significance. Yet this legislature, embittered against society and animated with hatred for all of the elements and forces that have built Wisconsin to maturity, is going to pass laws for the regulation and taxation of manufacturing, transportation, mercantile business, banking, farming and other undertakings, representing in the aggregate hundreds of millions of dollars of invested capital, paying out millions of dollars in wages and upon which the prosperity and welfare of Wisconsin are absolutely and solely dependent. These radicals have no investment in these great undertakings and have contributed to it in no conspicuous way to the economic development of the state. They are the froth on the surface of the industry, agriculture, transportation and business that have made Wisconsin what she is in the commercial and economic world, and as a place of healthy social environment. Think of turning over the legislative government of a great state like Wisconsin to men of this type and disposition! Think of committing its fortunes and the expenditure of more than $30,000,000 of revenue into their hands for state purposes, to say nothing of giving them the power to impose taxes without limit and without purpose, save to punish those who have been successful and who have made something of their lives and opportunities! It would be a colossal joke if it were not so tragic in its results.

THE RECORD OF CONGRESS

The closing session of congress was perhaps more notable for what it did not enact rather than for what it did enact in legislation. The most important domestic measure of the final sitting was the passage of the Capper-Lenroot rural credits bill. Just how far this law will go toward improving the credit facilities of the farmer remains to be seen, but the bill appears to be fundamentally sound and there is no reason why it should not relieve the farmer's credit necessities. It may not be as paternalistic in the assistance it renders as some of the radicals in congress would desire, but it enables the farmer to help himself, which is as far in principle as legislation of this kind ought to go.

On the whole we think congress is to be congratulated for refusing to enact the ship subsidy act. Strange as it may seem, the greatest opposition to ship subsidy comes from that element in the country which is seeking to indirectly subsidize special classes, such as the farmer and labor, in a multitude of ways. The plan for a government nitrate plant is especially of this character, as were numerous other measures brought before congress and the various legislatures by the so-called progressives. Another measure which failed was the soldiers' bonus, but that was due to the president's veto and the inability of congress to pass the measure over his objection. Congress also refused to amend the present Esch-Cummings transportation act. Notwithstanding the severe criticism made of this law, it was better to preserve it than to mangle it by changes the extremists in congress demanded. Compromise modifications would not have been accepted by them. The senate refused to approve the protocol making the United States a member of the international court of justice, as recommended by the president. One could scarcely blame the senate for declining to make up its mind in three or four days on a question which it took Mr. Harding three or four years to determine for himself. A measure that failed and that ought to have been favorably acted upon was the proposal to amend the constitution to prohibit the issuance of tax free securities.

The congress is to be commended for substantial reductions in the tax burdens and for genuine economies effected in appropriations and in federal expenditures. It has inaugurated the budget system for the first time in the history of the government, and that is a notable advance in itself toward economical and efficient administration. Congress ratified the various treaties negotiated by the Washington conference, including the four-power pact and the naval limitation agreement. It also approved the debt refunding agreement with Great Britain. Perhaps the most questionable of all its acts was the enactment of a high tariff measure which has raised duties in many instances higher than they were in the notorious Payne-Aldrich law. It is a safe conclusion that this act will produce far greater harm to American commerce and to American industry than it will yield in benefits.

MAGNESIA IN THE MEDICINE CUPBOARD

Milk of magnesia is a convenient milk alkali or antacid, somewhat less disagreeable than soda and not itself productive of gas when it reacts with the normal acid of the stomach, as soda does. But magnesia is somewhat more laxative than soda and is frequently given as a laxative, particularly to children, a teaspoonful or two of the milk of magnesia having a mild cathartic action which is accelerated in the presence of more than the usual amount of acid in stomach or intestine, as in the state of acidosis which accompanies many febrile conditions in children and which granny is willing to bet is "worms."

Dentists sometimes prescribe the use of milk of magnesia for rinsing the mouth to neutralize abnormal acidity. It was a common practice a few years ago to add a spoonful of milk of magnesia to the baby's bottle once or twice a day, but this has been superseded by lime water and by oatmeal water or barley water. Better still, the ethics and ideals of motherhood are better now than they were a generation ago, and more mothers are giving their babies a square deal by nursing them as God intended.

Magnesium carbonate comes in cubes. In this form magnesia is much used internally as an antacid in such conditions as heartburn, waterbrash (eructations of sour irritating fluid), sick headache and hyperacidity. Of course it is only a temporary relief at best. Probably magnesia should not be constantly taken internally, at any rate not for long periods, because there is some risk of accumulation of masses or concretions of it in the intestine. Magnesia cubes are sometimes used on the skin to prevent chafing.

Solution of magnesium citrate, prepared freshly by the pharmacist, is probably the least disagreeable of all saline cathartics, when a purgative of that kind is required. The bottle contains 12 ounces; an adult may take it all in one or two doses, or for a child a wineglassful may be given every two hours. This saline purgative is to be preferred when the thought of ordinary salts is repulsive.

Finally there is old Mag Sulph. Magnesium Sulphate is her full name, alias Epsom Salts, but affectionately dubbed Mag. Sulph. or just Maggie. There is an aura of romance and mystery about Maggie, something like that which surrounds Cleopatra since the movies discovered her, but all hokum aside, Mag is still a faithful old standby in a pinch if one's stomach is strong. She is worthy of her suburban sobriquet, too, the fine salts. However, in my judgment, our per capita consumption of Epsom Salts should never exceed two cents per annum and the administration of the two cents' worth should be wholly in the hands of the family doctor.

All of the magnesium preparations have a certain inhibitory action upon the nervous system, provided the medicine is applied to nerve tissues. Epsom Salts injected into the blood will produce paralysis of the entire body. Hypodermic injection of Epsom Salts produces deep sleep with complete muscular relaxation. Once in a while very grave poisonous effect of similar kind occurs when Epsom Salts is taken too freely.

LOOKING BACKWARD

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO

Tuesday, March 8, 1898

The Club met the previous evening with Mrs. L. S. Knox.

Mrs. P. T. Parish was critically ill with an attack of neuralgia.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank McGowan of Menominee, Mich., called on Appleton friends.

D. Hammel & Co. received a carload of especially fine horses.

Mrs. Landgraf of Menasha, mother of Val and Jacob Landgraf, was run down by a street car and critically injured.

Henry Kampfe, Matt Rossmel, John McIver, George Walters, Henry Schiller, Michael Albert, Matt Brill and John Kober purchased a 40-foot scow from Menasha parties which they intended to use for camping purposes up the river.

Dr. D. W. King, father of Mrs. Bertin Ramsey and Mrs. J. C. Rogers, died at the home of the latter at Racine.

Merchants were asked if the war scare with Spain had a tendency to advance prices and in each instance they gave a negative reply.

Another gift of $1,000 was received for the new Stephenson science hall. It brought the amount desired by the university authorities down to $6,000.

William Zuchke purchased the Fred Steffen farm west of Hortonville, 160 acres, for $6,000.

A Washington dispatch said Spain had withdrawn her request for Consul General Lee's recall and that the incident was practically closed.

TEN YEARS AGO

Tuesday, March 4, 1913

C. W. Simeons of London, England, was the guest of S. R. Wagg.

George T. McLaughlin of Boston had taken a position as boss finisher at the plant of the Combined Locks Paper Company.

Mrs. Fred Fountain of Chicago was visiting her mother, Mrs. Adam Closs, Bennett-st.

Miss Mary Bullock returned home from Peshtigo, where she was teaching and where she was injured by a fall while on her way home from school.

Charles Emden was elected vice president of the Greeters of Wisconsin, an organization comprised of clerks and managers of hotels, at the annual meeting at Hotel Pfister, Milwaukee.

Woodrow Wilson and Thomas Marshall were inaugurated as president and vice president of the United States at Washington.

Funeral services for Chief of Police Fred Hofer were held at 2 o'clock at the Congregational church.

The hearers were Patrolmen John Bloomer, Fred Morse, John Wagner, Edward Fox, James McCabe and Dennis Carroll.

J. B. Goddard was advertising home made sauerkraut at 15 cents per gallon; potatoes at 45 cents per bushel; fresh eggs at 22 cents per dozen; and picnic ham at 12 cents per pound.

John Day was among the Greenville people who attended the funeral of Chief of Police F. W. Hofer.

Practically all of the mill whistles of the city were blown at 11 o'clock in honor of the inauguration of President Woodrow Wilson.

Copra Is Chief Island Product

(From the Christian Science Monitor)

It was only the other day that I was talking with a man who didn't seem to know much about copra. He had a hazy idea that it was a South sea island product, but whether it was a fish, an insect, or a fruit . . . well he admitted himself he was hazy on the subject.

Copra is simply the dried kernel of the ripe coconut, from which coconut oil is expressed.

Island commerce centers around the production of copra. Pearl and trochus shell, rubber and fruit are secondary considerations.

From time of planting coconuts until a crop is harvested is about seven years. In the western Pacific groups. The trees need no attention and hurricanes alone are to be feared. They occur so rarely as to be negligible. The labor required to split and dry the nuts is not hard.

PAYS $1,000 AN ACRE

It is estimated in Tonga that one tree will produce annually 300 coconuts. Fifteen hundred nuts go to the ton. The best approved method of planting is 40 trees to the acre. Copra growing at current prices offers a return of roughly $1,000 an acre. In Fiji the ground is grassed and after the trees have reached a certain height cattle are turned into the pastures. Thus there is a double return. The "low" islands, that is, those of purely coral formation, are reputed to produce the best nuts and the atolls of Tonga and Marquesas are practically covered with trees which have grown from "self-sown" seed. These are the common property of the natives.

Attached to every trader house in the islands is a copra shed and huge drying platforms. For the trader will sometimes purchase "green" copra and attend the drying process himself. In out of the way islands hundreds of tons of the product is stored until such time as a ship is available. The arrival of a vessel for its six-month cargo means a gala week for the whole population. Usually the copra bagged before shipment, but if the output is sufficient it is dumped loose into the holds. The trader is not the only person who deals in copra, for the man who runs the little jumpy shop in the village has usually a good store of metal currency for admission to the island "movies."

COPRA HAS OWN PERFUME

Writers who drift through the Pacific are always enthusiastic on the smells of the islands. Actually, the perfume of the South sea is the "perfume" of coconut oil. Hot, pungent, and clinging, the air in a copra shed, once sniffed, will never be forgotten. It is a small apart; even as hay has its lingering memory, so has copra its perfume.

Of copra producing areas, tiny little Nuiroon in the Tonga group has the reputation of producing the largest quantities in the world. Once I drank milk from one of them and I can never pass a coconut in a grocer's without longing for the shade of the trees on that lone mountain peak.

The Question Box

(Any reader can get the answer to any question by writing The Appleton Post-Crescent Information Bureau, Frederick J. Haskin, Director, Washington, D. C. This offer applies strictly to information. The Bureau cannot give advice on legal, medical and financial matters. It does not attempt to settle domestic troubles, nor to undertake exhaustive research on any subject. Write your question plainly and briefly. Give full name and address and enclose two cents in stamps for return postage. All replies are sent direct to the inquirer.)

Q. How does the number of domesticated animals compare with the number of people in the world? J. E. S.

A. It is estimated that there is one sheep and one head of cattle for each 5 inhabitants of the earth and 1 head of swine for each 12 persons.

Q. In cribbage, why does a player say "go" when he cannot play a card under 31? P. S.

A. "Go" is merely the first word of a sentence which is implied—"Go on and play, for I cannot."

Q. Are as many bicycles made now as there were a few years ago?

A. Comparison of the output of bicycles in 1921 with the number made in 1919 reveals the fact that production had fallen off sharply. The number of completed bicycles in 1922 was 470,675 and in 1921 49,192. Motor cycles decreased in production also. In 1919, 59,122 were made, while in 1921, only 26,991 were put out.

Q. What are regarded as the best of Macaulay's Essays? G. E. I.

A. Probably the most famous of the essays of Macaulay are those on Lord Clive, Warren Hastings and William Pitt, but others that deal with men of letters, Addison, for instance, or Samuel Johnson, are equally brilliant.

Q. What is Great Greece? P. A. Z.

A. Great Greece was the name commonly given in ancient times to that part of southern Italy which was inhabited by Greek colonists.

Q. How much gold is there in the world? N. H. E.

A. Accurate gold statistics have been kept for 430 years. In that time $75,000,000 fine ounces of gold have been produced, valued at $18,000,000,000. About $3,000,000,000 of it has been made into money, the remainder having been used in the industrial arts or in some way lost.

Q. What salary did General Goethals have while he was working on the Panama Canal? E. J. G.

A. The Panama Canal Office says that at that time General Goethals was a Colonel, and served as Chairman and Chief Engineer of the Engineer Commission, at a salary of $15,000 per annum. At the completion of the Canal he was appointed Governor of the Canal Zone at a salary of $10,000 per annum.

Q. Who was the first United States Senator to oppose slavery? P. A. Z.

A. John Hale Parker, of New Hampshire, who was elected to the Senate in 1847 was the first and until joined by Senator Salmon P. Chase in 1849 the only avowed anti-slavery member of that body.

Q. What is the highest point in the State of Massachusetts? L. W.

Are You Voting The Straight Ticket Because Your Grandfather Did?

"So you're going to Schmidt's for your Easter suit—hey? What's the matter with So and So?"—asked a local man of 60 of his son of 22.

"Well, Dad, I'll tell you," replied the boy—"the store you have been dealing at is alright but Schmidt's have the styles—the suits that suit us young fellows—that's why I want to go there." Father, listen; if you are not a customer of ours yourself, let your 22 year old sons lead you to a store that will take 20 years off your age.

MATT SCHMIDT & SON
FINEST OF CLOTHING READY-TO-WEAR

A. Mount Greylock, in Berkshire county, five miles southwest of North Adams, is the highest point in Massachusetts, having an elevation of 3,505 feet.

Q. What was George Washington's first battle? J. M. C.

A. The engagement at Great Meadows, Pa., May 28, 1754, in the French and Indian war, is known as Washington's first fight. He surprised a French camp, killed the commander and nine men and captured the others, with casualties to his own force of one killed and three wounded.

Q. When did the State of Maine go dry? C. H.

A. An amendment was made to the constitution of the state of Maine in 1834 to prohibit the manufacture and sale of intoxicating liquors.

Q. What was Lincoln talking about when he was shot? G. T.

A. He had just remarked that he should like to visit Jerusalem.

Q. Is an automobile ever in good order if there is a smoke in the exhaust? S. I.

A. Thick, dark-colored smoke in the exhaust indicates a too rich mixture of gas which takes fire imperfectly. Dense white smoke indicates a poor oil, an excess of cylinder oil, or a deposit of soot in the cylinder. Thin-blue smoke indicates an accurate mixture of the gas and a proper ignition.

Find Traces Of Pre-Glacial Man

(From The Pathfinder.)

Did man roam the earth before the glacial period? Science does not think it likely but a rock image lately unearthed near Grand lake, high in the Colorado Rockies, presents quite a puzzle. It is a blue granite stone weighing 66 pounds. But what makes it remarkable is that it is covered with carvings indicating a very early period of human life. The mammoth animals outlined are contemporaneous with the Cro-Magnon age. Among those pictured are prehistoric dinosaurs and mastodons.

The main carving represents an early man sitting and holding a tablet with hands that have but three fingers. The flat nose pictured is generally associated with a race preceding the Aztecs, according to J. A. Jeanneron, curator of the Colorado Historical and Natural Historical society. On the same tablet are queer hieroglyphics that somewhat resemble signs of the Aztecs and Ute Indians.

The rock, which is extremely hard and well preserved, was unearthed by a farmer while enlarging an irrigation reservoir on his farm. It was buried six feet below the surface. It may be that this graven image was worshiped by preglacial man. If proved genuine it will mean that mankind existed long before the dates now generally set by scientific circles.

Good Business In Making Royalty

(From the New York Sun.)

Perhaps it's the steady influx of royalty and near royalty, and, then again, it may be the fact that Barnum was even more correct than the average persons gives him credit for being. But the fact remains that it is now possible for the New Yorker or visitor from Kankakee to dress himself up like an earl, a duke, a viscount, and even as a prince.

For in the roaring Forties there is a little shop recently opened that seems to be making a fair livelihood in doing just this sort of business, and the young blood who is going to the ball in a rented evening suit may step into this shop and for a few hard earned cents deck himself with the cross ribbons, decorations and medals usually worn by visiting royalty and dignitaries.

And the proprietor of this little shop insists that he is doing a wonderful business and that he and his assistant make to order diplomats, counts and even princes in a few minutes. While he has no accurate way of telling, he is of the opinion that considerable of this trade may be for masquerade parties and dances, but he is also of the opinion that considerable of it is to stage a bit of necessary bluff, always for reasons of the heart or for business prestige.

CAPITOL JOKES

BY W. W. CHALMERS
U. S. Representative From Ohio,
Ninth District.

EARLY risers are very proud of themselves. Two famers were boasting of their achievements in that particular, and one of them resolved to show up the other. So he rose one morning about 2 o'clock, went over to his neighbor's house and knocked on the door. The neighbor's wife called out:

"Who's there?"

"It's Jim Place," replied the visitor. "I'm looking for your husband. Where is he?"

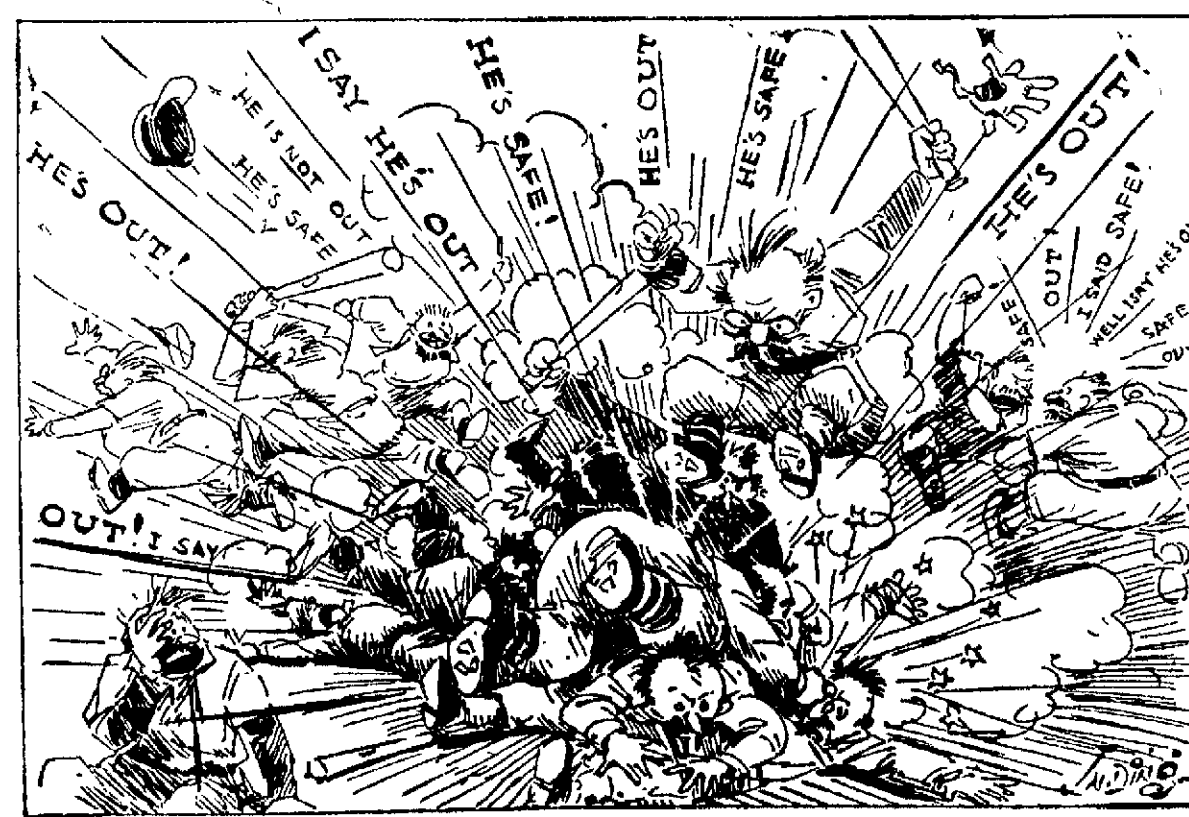

The wife scented mice.

"Why, I don't know," she answered. "I guess he's out around the farm somewhere. I haven't seen him since early this morning."

Pupils Show How Music Is Taught Them

A demonstration of music work which is being done in Appleton public schools was given Monday evening at the Parent-Teachers association meeting of the First ward. Dr. Earl Baker had charge of the program which included numbers by orchestras and illustrations of methods in teaching public school music.

The First ward orchestra under the direction of Miss Hazel Smith who recently organized it, and the high school orchestra under the direction of Dr. Baker, played. Members of the third grade of the First ward school and of the fifth grade of the Lincoln school were used by Dr. Baker to illustrate his methods. A boys' quartet gave several numbers and students from Lawrence Conservatory of Music assisted in illustrating types of work.

Much stress was laid on part singing. Dr. Baker believes children should be taught the parts they are naturally able to sing and not be allowed or forced to sing the unnatural thing.

MURPHY STAYS OUT OF ALDERMANIC RACE THIS SPRING

Peter Traas And W. H. Vanderhyden Among Candidates For Council

Alderman William Murphy of the Fourth ward is the only member of the present council not to seek reelection this year. Aldermen L. O. Hansen, First ward, J. F. Tappen, Second ward, C. F. Smith, Third ward Charles Fosse, Fifth ward and H. R. Beske, Sixth ward, are candidates for reelection.

The fight this year will be only in the First Fifth and Sixth wards. Alderman Tappen of the Second and Alderman Smith of the Third ward will have no opposition either at the primaries March 20, or at the final election on April 3. Former Alderman R. P. McGillan will also have the entire Fourth ward to himself.

The contest in the First ward will be between Alderman Hansen and Peter Traas, candy manufacturer. Another new candidate to enter the race is W. H. Vanderhyden, insurance agent. Fifth ward, who was also a candidate last year. The Sixth ward provides a three-cornered fight in candidacies of Alderman H. R. Beske, former Alderman J. H. Fiedler and George Loos.

Monday was the last day for filing nomination papers, according to E. R. Williams, city clerk. Any papers filed after that date cannot legally be accepted. But persons can become candidates by urging voters to write in names of candidates on the ballots.

Troop No. 8, boy scouts, will hold a meeting at the Congregational church Tuesday evening. One of the pending matters is the presentation of a picture to the group.

STYLES OF OTHER DAYS TO FEATURE PAGEANT OF STYLE

Young Women In Hoop Skirts Will Dance To Civil War Melody

Nearly every woman in Appleton at some time or other has asked herself the question, as she looked at pictures of Civil war days: "I wonder how I would look in a hoop skirt?" Maybe we wonder once in a while how our friends would look in a voluminous skirt and we chuckle a little to ourselves, and maybe we are a little thankful that the hoops belong to a bygone age.

On March 15 and 16 the women, and men too, will have a chance to see how their friends look in hoop skirts. Five Appleton young women, appearing in the scene which pictures the styles of Civil war days in the Spring Style pageant in Lawrence Memorial chapel, will sport the big skirts, with the crinkly crinoline and the shiny satin. The women in this scene will be Mrs. Paul Seaton, Mrs. R. W. Getschow, Mrs. Eric Galpin, Mrs. H. J. Thorsen and Mrs. Agnes Bauer. They will do a dance to the tune of "Old Jim Crow," one of the most popular pieces of Civil war days.

Another attractive feature of the program will be the minuet danced by girls in colonial costume to the melody of "Minuet in G" by Paderewski. This is probably the best known and most thoroughly enjoyed minuet in existence.

"The Spirit of '76," familiar to everybody, will be enacted as a part of the Revolutionary war days scene. The principals will be Joseph H. Humphrey as the aged man with the rifle, Richard Nelson as the boy with the drum and Emil Zedler as the man with the bandaged head.

Mrs. J. P. Bannister, who is in charge of the rehearsals, is in Milwaukee where she is arranging for the costumes which will be the most elaborate and appropriate that can be obtained.

Tickets to the pageant will go on sale at Bellings drug store Wednesday morning.

HIGH WOMEN'S TEAMS TO BOWL RETURN MATCH

The high scoring teams of the Arcade and Eagles bowling leagues of Appleton Women's club will have a match game at 7:30 Tuesday evening at the Arcade alleys. It will be the return game for the one played Wednesday of last week in Eagle hall.

The members of the teams are the women who have rolled the highest scores since the beginning of the season.

Mr. and Mrs. William Van Stratum, Jr., left Sunday evening for San Antonio, Texas, after a two weeks' visit with Mr. and Mrs. William Van Stratum, Sr., 754 Oneida-st.

MERCHANTS EAGER FOR RIBBONS ON WINDOW DISPLAYS

Participants In Essay Contest To Judge Best Windows - Next Week

A half-yard of silk ribbon, whether it be gold, blue or red, as a general thing means mighty little to a merchant; but next week they will be more covetous of the ownership of one of these little bits of ribbon than of a new automobile. These ribbons will indicate whether their window displays, which will be the big attraction of Spring Style Week from March 12 to 17, are kind that attract the people. That is the purpose of a window—to make people look at what the merchant has to sell and Style week is the reason for the most elaborate display ever attempted in the Fox river valley.

A gold ribbon will be given to the merchant whose window is voted the most attractive in Appleton. Then there will be blue ribbons for the merchants whose windows are considered the most elaborate in their particular lines and a red ribbon for the second best display. For example, a blue ribbon will go to the hardware merchant whose window is the most attractive, a blue ribbon goes to the jeweler who puts on the best display, and so on.

All persons who enter the essay contest, announced a few days ago, will be eligible to and must vote in the window contest. The essay blanks which they will fill out will contain spaces to register their votes. The essays are to describe Appleton as a style center in 200 words or less, using the 100 words which will be found in the display windows of the cooperating merchants. All of the 100 words must be used.

The windows will be trimmed on Monday and the curtain will be raised at 7:30 Monday evening, which is the formal opening of style week. An automobile parade and band concert will be held during the evening.

LODGE NEWS

A program and social time followed the meeting of Royal Neighbors in south Masonic hall Monday evening. Mrs. John Lueders and Mrs. George Hogreiver were appointed delegates to the Welfare council meeting Thursday afternoon.

A business meeting of Pythian Sisters will be held at 6:45 Friday evening in Castle hall. As the members are invited to visit the Neenah Lodge the meeting must begin promptly so the members will be able to take the 7:15 car for Neenah. A special drill practice for the officers and members of the staff will be held at 4 o'clock Thursday afternoon in the hall.

Officers will be elected at the meeting of Elk lodge Wednesday evening.

Mechanism Has Too Much Place In Modern Life

That society is at a climax today was the opinion given by Everett Hall, Lawrence orator in his oration "Mechanism and the Present Crisis," during the assembly period Monday evening at the religious training school. Mr. Hall stated the cause for the present situation is the growing mechanistic interpretation of life. He took up the studies in which mechanism is taught and showed the effect of their teachings in the industrial, religious and social life of the present time.

As a solution for the situation Mr. Hall stated a new idealism must be brought in, an idealism which would incorporate all the values science has given us and yet be able to transcend the purely mechanistic interpretation so often coming as a result of scientific work.

ELEVEN YOUNG WOMEN HIKE TO LAKE COTTAGE

The Misses Anna and Agnes Elias, Loraine Green, Lillian Sorenson, Esther and Mary Ingenthor, Evelyn Denstoft, Emily Adams, Edna and Leone Storm and Charlotte LaMars hiked to the women's club cottage at Lake Winnebago Sunday afternoon, making the trip from Waverly to the cottage along the railroad trail. Upon reaching their destination they prepared their supper and returned home on an interurban car early in the evening.

CHURCH SOCIETIES

The Bible class of St. Matthew church will meet at the church Tuesday evening.

Several pending matters will be disposed of.

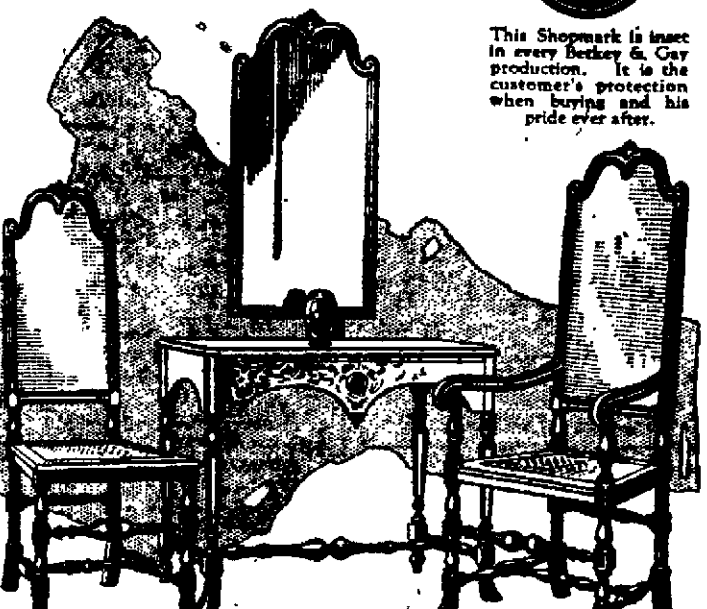

Former Congressman M. K. Reilly of Fond du Lac will deliver an address before the fourth degree assembly of the Knights of Columbus at a dinner at their hall at 6:15 Thursday evening. His subject has not been announced.

Election of officers will take place at 8 o'clock Tuesday evening at the regular meeting of Loyal Order of Moose. The meeting will be held in Pythian-Moose hall.

WANTS TO HELP OTHER WOMEN

Grateful for Health Restored by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Chicago, Ill.—"I am willing to write to any girl or woman who is suffering from the troubles I had before I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. My back ached, so I could not go about my house work, and I had other troubles from weakness. I was this way for years, then my sister-in-law took the Vegetable Compound and recommended it to me. In the time I have been taking it, it has done wonders for me. I keep house and am able to do lots of work besides."—Mrs. HELEN SEVICK, 2711 Thomas St., Chicago, Ill.

Women suffering from female troubles causing backache, irregularities, pains, bearing-down feelings and weakness should take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Not only is the worth of this splendid medicine shown by such cases as this, but for nearly fifty years this same sort of experience has been reported by thousands of women.

Mrs. Sevick is willing to write to any girl or woman suffering from such troubles, and answer any questions they may like to ask.

Roads Are Opened For Autos But Snowstorm Creates partial Tieup

Special to Post-Crescent
Hortonville — The mild spring weather enjoyed last week invigorated a large group of village boosters to such a degree that with the aid of shovels, trucks and other implements of labor, they set out to open the main roads leading to Hortonville, for auto traffic. These roads have been closed to auto travel since the blizzard Feb. 13.

The truck was used to break through the snow where possible and where the snow was too obstinate the shovels were employed. The boosters succeeded in opening the roads to New London, Greenville, Medina and Stephentown.

It seemed Saturday evening, that Mother Nature saw fit to undo this work by visiting upon the county a small blizzard. Because of the work already done on the roads, a few days of spring weather will clear them again, however.

FARMERS' DAY TO BE BIG AFFAIR

Merchants Cooperating To Make Ford Day a Huge Success

(Special to Post-Crescent)
Kaukauna — The farmers meeting and Ford day to be held in Kaukauna on Wednesday, March 14 under the direction of William Van Leisholt local Ford dealer, probably will eclipse anything of a like nature ever held in this city. The program will begin at 10 o'clock in the morning. Addresses will be given by Ford Motor Co. officials and W. F. Ashe, president of the Kaukauna Rotary club. Motion pictures and entertainment of every sort will be offered.

An effort will be made to make the meeting of greatest benefit to the farmers. Talks will be given regarding seeds, crop planting and cultivating. A thorough canvass of the city has been made and practically every merchant has donated articles or money for prizes and refreshments.

C. E. SOCIETY PLANS FOR DISTRICT MEETING

Kaukauna — The monthly business and social meeting of the Christian Endeavor society of Reformed church was held Monday evening in the church basement. Plans for the Green Bay district convention to be held in this city in September were made. A general committee composed of Kenneth Newton, Ruth Sager, Olive Jacobson and M. A. Trams was appointed to arrange preliminary details and to secure information regarding the convention.

Plans for the postponed organ recital to be given March 20 by Prof. Frank T. Taber of Appleton, also were resumed. The society will be divided into groups and a ticket selling campaign will be conducted. A social hour followed the meeting.

NEW TEACHER RETURNS TO WORK AT SCHOOL

Kaukauna — Miss Audrey Nethercott, high school teacher who has been engaged to replace Miss Margaret Conway, resigned, returned to her work again Monday morning. She began her duties on Feb. 1, but taught only one day when she was forced to return home on account of a nervous breakdown. She has fully recovered now and expects to continue until the end of the school year.

KAUKAUNA PERSONALS

Kaukauna — Stewart Dawson of Appleton, was a visitor in this city Sunday.

Oscar T. Thompson of Neenah, was a guest of his father H. E. Thompson Sunday.

Edward Mau spent the weekend visiting friends in Milwaukee.

Carl Hantchel and William Hunkle returned Monday from a weekend visit in Chicago.

Julie Mertes was a business visitor in Appleton Monday.

Bernard Flynn of Chicago, was a guest over the weekend at the home of Nick Hentz.

Mrs. Charles A. Woelz of Green Bay spent Sunday as a guest of Mr. and Mrs. William Woelz.

MERRILL MEN BUY ONTONAGON PLANT

Merrill — D. Clark Everett, part owner of the Ewing-Everest Pulp company of Merrill and secretary and general manager of the Marathon Paper company of Rothschild, together with other prominent paper mill directors of this vicinity, have purchased the temporarily abandoned paper mill of the Northern Fibre company of Ontonagon, Mich., and Mr. Everett proposes to change this unbleached soda pulp mill over to the manufacture of soda pulp, bleached and unbleached sulphate pulp.

The plant will probably be in operation by November or December, 1923, and will have a capacity of about seventy-five tons of unbleached sulphate or about sixty tons of bleached sulphate. This new corporation will probably be known as the Ontonagon Fibre company.

A little over two years ago W. P. Wagner, president of the Northern Paper Mills, Green Bay, Wis., along with W. E. Uhle, H. W. Brighton and P. S. Wagner went to Ontonagon to build a soda fibre mill to manufacture fifty tons of dried soda pulp daily. All of the machinery was ordered and the company started to build, but the slump of 1921 came and construction work was ceased. The property was left standing uncompleted.

Last June the mill was bid in at auction sale by W. B. Van Allen of Carthage, N. Y., on behalf of New York and New England creditors. The price paid for the unfinished mill was $102,000, but until now no attempt to complete it has been made.

It is said that all the sulphate or kraft mills in Sweden are down on account of a strike and that because of this condition there promises to be a little kraft pulp shipped to this country during the open water season this year. As the new mill will be in operation next winter, Mr. Everett is being congratulated by his paper mill friends for striking the iron while it is hot.

LADYSMITH MAN MAY BE ELLINGTON TESTER

Special to Post-Crescent
Greenville — Lee Nelson of Ladysmith is being considered for the position of official tester by Ellington Cow Testing association, to succeed H. J. Lammer, who has resigned. It is possible that an appointment will be made soon, as the term of Mr. Lammer expires April 1.

Directors elected for the coming year at the recent annual meeting are John Spears, who is president, W. L. Laird, secretary and treasurer, and W. T. Pioger, D. P. Hallora and George Diller.

Social Items

Kaukauna — Mrs. William Woelz entertained a group of friends at a stork shower at her home, 919 Grignon-st. Saturday evening in honor of Mrs. Gus Boehmerit. Fifteen persons were present. The evening was spent in playing games. Prizes were won by Mrs. Mike Jacobson and Mrs. Walter McKloskey.

TURKEY RAISING PROFITABLE FOR COUNTY FARMERS

Big Birds Require Little Attention And Command Huge Price

W. F. WINSEY
A certain farm journal of recent issue contains an ad. over a Boston woman's name and address offering Tom turkeys one year old for sale at $10 and two years old at $20. There is nothing in the ad to indicate that the particular Tom turkeys are thoroughbred, pets or prize winners—just Tom turkeys, that's all.

If the Boston woman can raise and by a little timely advertising sell Tom turkeys at upwards of $20 apiece, why would it not be a paying proposition for some woman in this vicinity to raise Tom turkeys and by timely, expensive advertising in the Post-Crescent sell them for prices equal to those demanded by the Boston woman?

The demand ever increasing, all it requires to sell turkeys is a little of the right kind of gubbin in the want ad columns of the Post-Crescent.

The turkey is the largest, hardest, most popular, scarcest and highest priced bird domesticated for food purposes, to be found in the United States. And no bird is in greater danger of extermination unless prices still advance to insure his unlimited propagation.

REQUIRES LITTLE CARE
No bird raised on the farm requires less care after the first month, causes less trouble, incurs less expense for his feed, does more good during his period of growth and, finally, commands a higher price than does the turkey. He roves all summer because he is an insect eater. He has a way of moving through fields of growing grain in quest of insects without trampling down stalks or disturbing hedges.

In the fall when insects become scarce the turkey by conditions is forced to forgo the pleasure of his insect diet, becomes a grain eater and is fattened for the market on corn.

FEW FLOCKS HERE

Last fall in traveling widely about the country, I found only a very few flocks of turkeys and could not buy a turkey for Thanksgiving at any price where I located flocks. The answer I usually got to my inquiries was: "We shall not sell our turkeys till Christmas. The price will be higher at that time."

Outagamie county ought to raise enough turkeys at present prices to supply the demands of the people living in the county at least.

Does turkey raising pay in Outagamie county? It certainly does because no investment is made except for old birds, there is no expense in rearing as the young birds shift for themselves, the prices are enormous, ready and the prices are enormous. What other animal or bird raised on a farm is sold wholesale at 50 cents per pound? Turkeys are, and each turkey nets the owner quite a snug little sum if it happens to weigh fifteen or twenty pounds.

A woman living near Freedom, two years ago raised 100 turkeys with very little trouble and expense. They were beautiful and the flock netted the woman over $500.

Does it pay to raise turkeys? Watch the demand and pay the price and then answer the question yourself. The Boston woman asks $20 each for Toms that have reached the age of discretion. Her price may help you to answer the question.

THE GREEN-EYED ACCOMPLICE

BY E. PHILLIPS OPPENHEIM

Copyright, 1922, by E. Phillips Oppenheim
Arranged NEA Service, Inc.

This is the first story in Mr. Oppenheim's splendid new series of mysterious stories, in which is recounted the remarkable pursuit of Michael Sayers, famous international criminal, by Sir Norman Greaves, formerly of Scotland Yard. Sayers is sought by the police of many countries for operations under a dozen aliases. Greaves' chase unfolds itself in a series of narratives of compelling interest, the greatest detective stories since "Sherlock Holmes." Be sure to follow the Oppenheim stories in this paper.

MICHAEL BEGINS HIS STORY

The duel, or perhaps I should say the vendetta, between Norman Greaves and myself—known under many aliases but christened Michael Sayers—began on the morning of the third of November, some years ago, when I left my suburban home at Brixton to catch my usual train to the city, and found myself confronted upon the pavement with the immediate chances of life or death.

I will admit that I was taken by surprise. Every man at Scotland Yard was known to me by name and reputation, and I was perfectly convinced in my own mind that there was no one in that much abused but, from our point of view, admirable institution, capable of penetrating the secrets of my daily life and discovering in me, the reputed Thomas Dugan, leather broker of St. Thomas Street, Bermondsey, and 138 Westerton Road, Brixton, the most accomplished and daring criminal of modern times. I knew at once, when I saw the police inspector with his two plain-clothes companions crossing the road toward me, that some one else was taking a hand in the game. Even at that moment, when I had little time for observation, I saw the well-groomed figure of a man emerge from behind the curtains of Number 133, opposite, and it took me just exactly ten seconds to realize that henceforth, after I had escaped from this present dilemma, I should have to move my pieces with greater circumspection across the chessboard.

It is a long story, and I am not going to tell it all at once. His hair had grayed, but his keen eyes, his forceful mouth and his long, lean face were all unchanged. He was the same man in the old days whom we had all feared, the man whose retirement from the Yard we had celebrated with a small but very select dinner at the Cafe Royal. My old hatred of him blazed up as I realized the voluntary nature of his retirement. I made up my mind then that if ever the time came when I should be the arbiter of his fate, this man should have no quarter.

The street was a short one, and within 50 yards of a bustling thoroughfare. Nevertheless at that early hour there were not many people about, and as it afterward transpired, witnesses of the episode were few and far between. I followed him for a few seconds. It has always been my principle that the least form of defense is prompt attack. While the inspector therefore, stood with his mouth open ready to inform me that he held a warrant for my arrest, I shot him through the right shoulder. He staggered and would have fallen but for his two companions. Before they had propped him up against the railing and recovered from their surprise, I was around the corner of the street and in an empty telephone booth in the adjacent post-office substation.

I have always maintained that the telephone company is an unjustly abused institution. On this occasion, at any rate, my defense of them was justified. Within thirty seconds of asking for Number 1000 Hop, I was talking to the warehouseman whose duty it was to diet and keep in good order my supplies of leather—which, to tell the truth, were rarely used. My few rapid words of instruction spoken, I turned my attention to those ingenious devices which, although savoring a little of the trickster, have on more than one occasion resisted me in preserving my liberty.

I turned my overcoat, which, in place of a sober black garment, now became a covering of light gray tweed with a half belt behind. I rolled my trousers up to the knee, disclosing very well cut brown-leather garters. I left my black hat in the telephone box, replacing it with a tweed cap. I removed with a little pang of regret the most wonderful dark mustache that the hand of artist had ever fashioned, adjusted a pair of dark spectacles and made my exit.

There was some commotion outside, and the freckled young lady behind the counter paid scant attention to me.

"The telephone service doesn't get any better," I said pleasantly. "It's taken me nearly ten minutes to get two numbers."

She accepted my complaint with equanimity. Her attention was still on the street outside.

"What is it? A fire?" I asked.

She shook her head.

"I don't know," she answered.

I thereupon made my way into the street. There was a little crowd in Woolerton Road, and a motor ambulance came dashing up. I strolled along the broad thoroughfare until I sighted a taxicab. I hailed the man and hesitated for a moment, glancing up at the sky.

He considered the point for a moment. "Don't fancy there's much more rain about, guv'nor," he replied. "There's a taxi at Woolerton Hill Station," I directed.

From Woolerton Hill I traveled to London Bridge by the electric railway, and from London Bridge I took a taxi to Waterloo. From Waterloo I caught the ten-forty train to Brookwood, and from the hotel there, where I paused for some slight refreshment, I engaged a taxicab to drive me to Linkside, the country retreat of a certain Mr. James Stanfield, situated on the fringe of Woking Golf Links. William, my man-of-all-work, was digging in the garden, and welcomed me with the bucolic indifference of his class. Janet, his niece, admitted me promptly to the house and received my unexpected visit with a respectful lack of curiosity that was a heritage of her earlier training as a parlor maid. She lit the fire in the little sitting-room and listened to my few remarks with imperturbable pleasantness. Yet on that morning, perhaps more than any other in my life, I felt a shadow of uneasiness concerning Janet. I watched her in silence, stooping over the fire, a young woman with a figure whose perfection her ill-fitting corsets and clothes failed to fit together to conceal, pale of complexion, with intense, queer-colored eyes, close-lipped, and with a mass of well-brushed glossy brown hair. When she stood up, a little flushed with her exertions, she faced me for a moment, waiting for orders. I am not a susceptible man, but it struck me for the first time that the girl was more than ordinarily good-looking.

"Nothing has happened during my absence, Janet?" I inquired.

"Nothing at all, sir," she replied.

"Nobody called?"

"There was a rate-collector," she said. "He wanted to know your address in London."

"Did you tell him?"

"I do not know it, sir," she reminded me quietly.

I removed my glasses and polished them. I am an expert physiognomist, but the girl's impassivity baffled me.

"I shall leave it with you before I go away next time, I promise. Please put me out a gray tweed golf-suit and stockings."

"Shall you be requiring lunch, sir?" she asked.

"I will dine at the Golf Club," I told her. "I shall dine at home."

She left me silently and without further remark. When I went upstairs, a few minutes later, my bedroom as usual, was spotlessly neat, my golfing clothes laid out without any single omission. I discarded my somewhat heterogeneous articles of attire, donned my golfing habiliments with some care, and made my way to the links. In the passage of the clubhouse I met the secretary.

"Are you wanting a game this afternoon, Mr. Stanfield?" he asked.

"I should be glad of one," I replied.

"There's a man just come down," he went on. "Four handicap. You will find him in the grill."

I made my way there. Seated at a table alone was Sir Norman Greaves, the man who had watched for my arrest a few hours ago, in Woolerton Road, Brixton.

Badger Child Expert Gives Equal Chances

Madison, Wis.—The "old horror of standardization," above everything, is what Dr. Maybelle Park seeks to avoid in the care of Wisconsin's homeless, neglected, dependent and delinquent children.

The state's little ward, she holds, has as good a right as any other child to an opportunity for development of his own individuality. She is determined that he shall not lose this right through the methods, however well meant, of any "institution."

Dr. Park is head of the recently created juvenile department of the Wisconsin State Board of Control. She supervises all state homes in which children live.

care, sanitary accommodations, skilled medical attention, suitable employment, sufficient rest and proper educational advantages for such homes' inmates, but she points out that these things are not necessarily inconsistent with "institutionalization." In Wisconsin, however, she intends that they shall be.

So far as possible, it is Dr. Park's aim to provide for the adoption of orphans who do not fall under the classification of defectives or delinquents, but she makes a point of investigating thoroughly both the child's antecedents and the character of the foster parents in each case of this sort in order to guard against disappointment on either side in future.

WANTS NEW LAWS

She is arranging for the employment of older children in the state homes or schools, in colonies of 20 each, the boys at afforestation work, the girls at domestic tasks or in model factories, the idea being to fit them to support themselves at good wages when thrown on their own resources.

At present she is working for legislation requiring all courts which commit children to state homes to retain competent physicians and psychologists and to employ suitable tests to determine how to place them to the best advantage.

Dr. Park considers Wisconsin and Minnesota the states best equipped with child welfare laws.

Adventures Of The Twins

Mother Goose's Broom

You'll never believe it, I'm sure, but at last Nancy and Nick reached the Fairy Queen's Palace in the magic automobile.

The magic pill that Light Pingers dropped into the gasoline tank (making the car go backward) was the last of their troubles, for the Green Wizard stuck out his toe and turned the car around, and although it was still going backward, it soon arrived at the Fairy Queen's Palace.

You should have been there to hear the rejoicing when the Twins appeared sound and well and as happy as harlequins (if you know what that is, although Nancy would have to be a columbine, being a girl.)

All the Queen's counselors stood around and helped them out, while the new chauffeur, called Gloves N. Leggins, looked over the queer little car and said it was as good as new.

All he had to do, he said, was to fix the highcrank and mend the thingumabob and straighten the whirlligig and patch the tire and repair the engine and send away for a new top.

Outside of that everything was all right.

The Fairy Queen was so happy to have Nancy and Nick back safely that she made them a present of the Green Shoes.

Before that, you know, she had only loaned them to them.

"And now, my little friends," said she, "would you like to rest, or go at once on another adventure?"

"Another adventure!" cried both children at once.

"Well, then," answered her royal highness, "I have one all ready. Mother Goose has lost her broom and doesn't know where to find it."

REITLESS JACKETS

Straight beltless jackets are very popular with the debutante class. Usually they are of figured, embroidered or braided designs and are worn with plain, straight-line skirts.

Girl Of 1,000 Marriage Bids Picks Hubby

BY GENE COHN

San Francisco—The "girl of 1,000 proposals," has accepted suitor 1,001.

She's on her way to China to marry him.

Julia Belle Faurot is the girl. Gustave I. Tolson is suitor 1,001. They met while touring the orient.

Miss Faurot is known as "Chicago's most proposed to girl."

To be arithmetically exact, she denies that she's been proposed to just 1,000 times, or quite that many times, or anywhere nearly that many, in fact. One thousand is merely a

THE GIRL MEN LIKE

Julia Belle Faurot has learned from her wealth of wooing that:

Men not only don't insist on beauty, but sometimes are suspicious of it—of the attraction it may have for other men and of the vanity it may breed in its possessor.

If the plain girl acquires a few accomplishments, such as music and ability as a talker, she will find herself not only not at all out of luck, but very much the other way.

Lots of men like freckles; they may be an asset rather than a liability.

Men like competition in love, as in business.

"round figure," she says. But she admits that she's been referred to as "most wooed."

"Well, what does a girl who has had 1,000 proposals—in 'round figures'—think of love? Does such a wealth of wooing make a husband difficult to select? Does it dull the taste for romance?"

Answering question No. 1, Miss Faurot says:

"There's no chance of doubt concerning love once it arrives; I don't think all the proposals in the world would make any difference."

To No. 2:

"If 1,000,000 men proposed, one should have no trouble in choosing the right one."

To No. 3:

"I'm thrilled to death!"

Miss Faurot is a Chicago society debutante. She calls herself "plain." Maybe so. But attractive? My!

She's small and blonde. She does have freckles.

She has also a cultural background that stretches from a Boston music conservatory to a college in Rome. She believes men appreciate talented women.

"I've seen many a beautiful girl passed by for one with brains and charm," she says. "I believe every girl should devote herself to acquiring these advantages rather than to beauty doctoring."

Household Suggestions

IT SERVES FOR SOUP

The liquid in which salt beef is boiled will not be too salty for soup if you will leave two or three carrots in it until cold. They will absorb the salt so that when it is reheated and the necessary vegetables added the seasoning will be just about right.

VINEGAR KILLS ODOR

The disagreeable odor which accompanies the cooking of cabbage may be eliminated by boiling a small amount of vinegar on the back of the stove while the vegetable is being cooked.

SODA SAVES TIME

It will not be necessary to soak navy or shelled beans overnight if you will just add a little baking soda when they are cooking. They will be soft in about half the usual time.

MAKING LIQUID SOAP

Instead of throwing scraps of soap away when they become too small for water, collect them in a jar, cover with water and stand in the oven until the soap is melted. Excellent liquid soap is the result.

MARRIAGE A LA MODE

In some parts of Switzerland where the people are very poor, the guests share the expense of a wedding. A collection is taken up, the bride herself passing the hat. Monday is considered the lucky day for weddings and February the lucky month.

Few couples are defiant enough of superstition to be married in March or November.

NORMA TALMADGE'S Manners

By Norma Talmadge

MANNERS are acquired more easily than money, and are much more essential to social success. The first medium of social intercourse is speech; hence it must be regarded as of first importance. A man rises or falls with his own words. The tone of his voice, the quality of his laughter, the choice of his words conspire to reveal his character. Think before you speak!

IN CONVERSATION

- 1: The man or woman who wishes to converse agreeably must first learn to listen politely.
- 2: One refrains from interrupting the speech of another, regardless of what wonderful idea may be ready to burst from his own lips.
- 3: One never expresses strong likes or dislikes, particularly on modes or morals, and thus avoids arguments and offense.
- 4: To avoid appearing ridiculous, one never uses a word unless he is sure he can pronounce it properly and understands its meaning.
- 5: It's well to refrain from asking questions, especially personal questions, because everyone resents inquisitiveness.

IT'S BAD MANNERS to whisper in company; words that must be whispered ordinarily never should be spoken.

CHILDREN WILL BE WHAT THEIR HOME INFLUENCES MAKE THEM

BY MRS. WINNIFRED M. HUCK
Congresswoman-at-Large From Illinois

(Copyright, 1923, NEA Service, Inc.)

"Youth must be served," and because today's flappers and flippers turn some capricious somersaults, there is no need to set up such a hue and cry as is raised about the morals of our boys and girls.

I sincerely believe that the children of this generation are an improvement on all the generations which preceded them.

Pass by the complaints of those who would lead us to believe that our children are the victims of excesses all feeling and impulse. In fact I am afraid we will find more responsibility and duty in it than romance and dreams. Although I hate it, tonight, I know more than ever before that convention after all is but making into a universal rule the duties imposed on mankind by necessity and convenience. I close my hand over my clamoring heart and listen to the same counsels of reason.

You know, John dear, that my mother would never have forgiven me had I slipped away and married you without letting anyone know, as you wanted me to do. Mothers want to make the world think, at least, that their daughters are going to something better than they have ever had before, and much of the compensation which will come to my mother for losing her daughter, will be the glory of sending me to you in the proper manner.

So there must be wedding bells and cakes and flowers and bride-maids and clothes, and chests of linen and wedding presents, and the round of social affairs that come before. Oh, how I shall hate those social affairs, for you, John, will not be with me!

All the time I am bowing and smiling and accepting congratulations and good wishes, I shall be wishing that I was beside you in the little roadster, hurrying along a deserted country road where the twilight shuts down between the shadowy trees finding outlet in such affairs as petting parties.

They do not speak from experience, but from imagination. No girl will "pet" if her mother enjoys her full confidence. Nor will a boy.

I am the mother of four adolescent children. Mine is a normal American home.

None of my children is going wrong. And if mine is a normal home, there are millions of others like it, wherein the same sane, wholesome and safeguarded conditions obtain.

Were I to believe even for a second that ALL high school girls are not as they would care to have their mothers know them, I should not want to continue as a representative of the people in Congress, or share my lot as a cog in the great human machine.

Your children will be just what you teach them to be.

No girl or boy brought up in a home where mutual love and faith are keystones in the family arch will stray far from the paths of honesty and righteousness.

Merely because some few isolated examples of youthful indiscretion are exploited by sensationalists, do not entertain the notion that the youth of this country is going to destruction.

Bad is always found with good, but the tendency of any nation where the mothers are good, is to have a dominant majority of good citizens.

One paramount tendency of this age, I think, has been to make its youth truthful. Things are done now in the open.

If a boy wants to pay attention to a girl he does so and tells his parents. Candor, if encouraged, opens the door for correction.

Do not gain the impression that I am tolerantly inert. Such is not so. I merely look with a mother's eye into the motives that actuate youth. Those motives are not bad.

A little advice, much education and more love will assure the moral integrity of our children. These must come from the parents.

LETTER FROM LESLIE HAMILTON TO JOHN ALDEN PRESCOTT

LOVER MINE:

I am sitting in my drawing room. It is very late. There is no more passing before my door; nothing sails my ears except the sound of the pounding wheels underneath the car which keeps saying, "The miles are lengthening between you—the miles are lengthening between you—the miles are lengthening between you."

The monotony of the refrain is maddening, even if the fact were not breaking my heart—my sad heart, which keeps trying to bridge those weary miles that are stretching out further and further from me to you. Hearts, you know, are never worldly, never practical. They do not reason, they only feel—and that is why perhaps they are bruised and hurt so often.

Tonight my heart is crying out to that part of my brain we humans call reason, that it has been persuaded me to give up that which I know now makes existence life, for the sake of following out some silly conventions of society.

I want you so, lover mine, I want you so. Everything in the world sinks into nothingness beside the want of you.

But my reason insists that wedding must be prepared for, just as births and burials must be given thought and preparation. Life is not that line its sides and the moon is faintly showing as it comes up over the hills in the distance.

"The miles are lengthening between you—the miles are lengthening between you!" How I wish I could close my ears to what those wheels are saying!

You will not forget anything about me, will you, John? You will remember just how my mouth looked when you bent over me to kiss me? You will remember the touch of my hand—the intonation of my voice—and the unhappiness my whole being expressed when you were leaving me? I could not bear to have you forget.

John, dear John, the unhappiness of parting is mine, now. Those insistent wheels are bumping along, not upon the iron rails but upon my heart, saying over and over again, "The miles are lengthening between you."

I do hope you are writing me tonight. For even if you do, the earliest I can hear from you will be two days from now, after I have been home at least 12 hours. But whether you are writing or not, lover mine, you cannot take from me this such happiness—yes, John, there is such a thing as sad happiness, but only lovers know it—of sitting here and writing to you.

I am very impatient to get home. I am very impatient to tell them at home about you.

Dad, dear old dad, will be gruff in his questions, but I know he will give his consent when I tell him that only you can make me happy. Mother, John, will be rather proud, you are so good looking, dear.

Whatever mothers may say about their grief at losing their daughters, every mother feels happier when she sees her girl well settled; when she knows that she has begun to fulfill her destiny. No mother likes to feel that her daughter cannot exert that feminine lure which brings to her the love of a good man.

John, my mother will love you and my father respect and admire you. Alice, my young sister, will adore you—and I, lover mine? You are already a part of your loving, loving, LESLIE.

TOMORROW: A letter from John Alden Prescott to his prospective father-in-law, and his reply.

Don't use the whip on tired nerves — it means trouble

When the day's work is hard, you can't make it easier with stimulants.

Ask any doctor for the facts.

You can't over-draw energy without paying.

Coffee contains the nerve-stimulating drug, caffeine. When coffee is used to overcome fatigue, it means whipping the tired nerves into a run.

You may seem to get added strength—but there's a settlement coming for an over-drawn account.

Take care!

Rest is the cure for fatigue. Health is the equipment for hard tasks.

Rest and health are interfered with when nerves are over-stimulated.

You've seen plenty of proof. How many people do you know who say, "I have to go slow on coffee; it keeps me awake nights?"

How is it in your own case? Have you counted restless night hours after the evening cup of coffee?

Treat your health sensibly that you may meet your task capably.

Don't try to draw strength from over-driven nerves. That way lies weakness. Don't increase over-work by using stimulants. You are merely postponing and increasing the penalties.

Be fair to yourself!

For a hot, comforting beverage, drink Postum and let nerves have their natural rest.

There's charm without harm in Postum—a delightful, satisfying cereal beverage; rich, seal-brown in color, delicious in flavor and aroma, and containing nothing that can irritate nerves or disturb health. Postum is safe and enjoyable for every member of the family.

Thousands who formerly used coffee or tea, and began to pay the penalties of nerve-stimulation, now use Postum and praise its comforting goodness.

The road to health is a good road for anybody to follow.

Your grocer sells Postum in two forms: Instant Postum (in tins) prepared instantly in the cup by the addition of boiling water. Postum Cereal (in packages) for those who prefer to make the drink while the meal is being prepared; made by boiling fully 20 minutes.

"There's a Reason" for Postum

Made by Postum Cereal Co., Inc. Battle Creek, Michigan

ORIENTAL TURBANS

Turbans of gold lace cloth are wrapped tightly about the head and left unadorned save for a buckle or a knot of the material. The smart effect to give is that of an oriental turban which is wound before each wearing.

Reservations have been numerous for the concert by Harold Bauer, master pianist, at Lawrence Memorial chapel Tuesday evening. This will be the last musical number of the Community Artist and Lecture Series. The closing number of the course is the lecture by Gov. Henry J. Allen of Kansas, who speaks on Tuesday evening of next week.

DEATHS

STROEBE FUNERAL

Funeral services for Joseph Stroeb, who died Monday morning will be held from his home at 2 o'clock Wednesday afternoon and from Riverside chapel at 3 o'clock. Dr. H. E. Peabody will have charge of the services.

WILLIAM ARTHUR LLOYD

Funeral services were held Monday afternoon at Ironwood, Mich., for William Arthur Lloyd, 18, a student of Lawrence college. Mr. Lloyd died Friday afternoon at St. Elizabeth hospital here following an illness for two weeks with typhoid fever. The body was conveyed to the home of his parents, Capt. and Mrs. John Lloyd, Ironwood, for burial.

The student was taken ill while attending college. He has been enrolled here for the last year and a half. The decedent was a brother of Mrs. Fred Treidies, 650 Mendota, and was a member of Phi Kappa Alpha fraternity. The young man was prominent in school activities. Most impressive memorial services were held at Lawrence Memorial chapel by the students and faculty Monday morning in memory of Mr. Lloyd.

JOHN PINGEL DIES AT PORTLAND, ORE.

John Pingel, 88, for many years a resident of Appleton and former state senator, died of pneumonia Wednesday, Feb. 28, at the home of his daughter, Mrs. D. W. Mack, at Portland, Ore., with whom he had been making his home since leaving Appleton five years ago. The body will be brought to Appleton later for burial.

The announcement of Mr. Pingel's death was conveyed in a letter from Dr. D. W. Mack which B. C. Wolter received Monday. The letter said that Mrs. Pingel, who is the sister of Mr. Wolter, is critically ill with the disease which caused the death of her husband.

Mr. Pingel came to Outagamie county from western New York when this locality was sparsely settled, purchased an 80-acre farm in the town of Greenville and years later increased it to 160 acres. He organized the Greenville grange nearly 50 years ago. It is still in existence and he was worthy master for many years.

Disposing of his farm in 1887 he engaged in the farm implement business with his brother-in-law, B. C. Wolter, the firm being known as Pingel & Wolter. The firm's store was located on College-ave between Oneida and Morrison-sts for several years and at the time the members dissolved partnership in the early '90s it was located on Appleton-st nearly opposite Hotel Northern. Mr. Wolter continued the business.

Mr. Pingel always took great interest in national, state, county and town affairs and served the state one term as senator and his town several terms in an official capacity. He is survived by his widow; a daughter, Mrs. D. W. Mack, Portland, Ore.; his son Lawrence Pingel, Fort Atkinson.

HEALTH OF HARDING REQUIRED RESPIRE

Before word began to come from various parts of the country that some people thought he was not working hard enough and was playing golf too often. It takes extraordinary determination to play while there is public business piled high on one's desk and Mr. Harding for a long time took his recreation reluctantly but regularly. Then he began to play every other day and finally for several days at a time he didn't get any recreation. It began to tell on him. His cares increased and his health began to fail. It took the president two weeks to recover from a slight cold and he still shows some of the effects of confinement.

LEGION TAKES STAND AGAINST ENDING GUARD

Also Adopts Resolution Urging Beveridge As Adjutant General

Branding the bill in the state legislature to abolish the Wisconsin National Guard as "unjust, un-American and an insult to the record of present and former members" and to the memory of the guardsmen who died in the World War, Oney Johnston post of the American Legion, at its meeting in Elk hall Monday evening, adopted a resolution of protest which will be presented to the assemblymen and senator from this district.

The post also adopted a resolution urging appointment of Col. Byron Beveridge of Appleton as adjutant general of Wisconsin to succeed Orlando Holway, who died several weeks ago.

In addition a committee of three persons will be appointed to visit Assemblyman Charles Schrimpf of this city outlining to him the legion's views in reference to retention of the state guard.

TWO GIVE TALKS

James Gheen, a speaker for the Greater Appleton movement, and Stabbed by Neuritis!

Many people suffer attacks by this arch-foe commonly called "nerve inflammation." The first warning is usually a sharp, stabbing pain which may "come and go" or hurt constantly. You may feel it in the shoulder, neck, forearm, small of the back, or down the thigh and leg to the heel. It is sometimes mistaken for sciatica, rheumatism or neuralgia, which troubles often do end up in neuritis.

No matter where you have nerve pains or what caused them, you can get quick relief without using narcotics or poisons. Just apply Tysmol over the part that hurts and in 3 to 5 minutes the pain should be gone. Tysmol is absorbed through the pores of the skin. It has a soothing, healing effect upon the diseased nerves, gradually helping to restore them to healthy condition.

Don't suffer any longer. Price $1 at Schintz Bros. Co. or any reliable druggist. Tysmol Company, Mfg. Chemists, 400 Sutter-St., San Francisco, adv.

Leonard Day, hatless, coatless and penniless author-hiker, addressed the meeting and an informal card party and lunch followed.

The post adopted the resolution respecting the national guard in response to a request of the state legion department, which is exerting its efforts to prevent the state from being without defense.

The resolution reads: Whereas, a bill has been introduced and passed in the assembly of the state of Wisconsin to abolish the Wisconsin National guard, and

Whereas the Wisconsin National guard is the sole protection of the state of Wisconsin against internal disorders and disorders, and

Whereas the Wisconsin National guard, under the provisions of the national defense act of the United States of America, is a part of the first line of defense of the United States against insurrection and invasion, and

Whereas the Wisconsin National guard, from its first inception, and throughout its history, has proven itself to be an organization of the higher soldierly and moral type, always upholding and instilling in its members the highest American ideals and conducting itself in a most efficient manner, and

Whereas, as a result of its thoroughly well trained and disciplined condition at the time of the entry of the United States of America into the World War, the Wisconsin National guard became a part of the Third and the majority of the Fifth American divisions to be sent overseas and to enter that conflict, and

Whereas, throughout the World War, the units of the Wisconsin National guard proved themselves most worthy and efficient defenders of the state of Wisconsin and of the United States of America, therefore

Be it resolved that Oney Johnston post No. 38 of the American Legion, department of Wisconsin, does hereby brand the aforesaid bill to be unjust, un-American and an insult to the record of present and former members of the Wisconsin National guard and to the memory of hundreds of its members who gave their lives on the battlefields of France in order that the people of our state and nation would be secure in their enjoyment of liberty, peace and prosperity and do hereby protest its passage, and

Be it further resolved that copies of this resolution be prepared and placed in the hands of the senator, the assemblymen from Outagamie county district of the state of Wisconsin.

The resolution concerning Col. Beveridge explained the long military career of the Appleton man, his record of service and an endorsement of his personality and ability in holding the office of adjutant general. A copy of the resolution will be sent to Gov. John J. Blaine.

NEED VISION

Mr. Gheen, in his talk on the legion's place in the upbuilding of Appleton, kept the veterans laughing with pointed stories. He urged the legion members to take more than a passing interest in community affairs and to do things for the city which will let the people know the organization is thinking about the better city.

Mr. Day told of the conditions under which he is traveling around the rim of the United States afoot and related some of his experiences along the way.

Bonnell Little, vice commander, presided in place of Commander Henry J. Pettigrew, who was absent because of illness in his family. Mr. Little outlined the work of the Americanization committee in his report as chairman, intimating that ceremonies will be arranged for those who become naturalized American citizens. Post members were invited to attend.
